Effects Of Oil Strike Hit Public

Government Limits Deliveries, Places Ban on Exporting

DENVER (AP)—The continuing strike of 22 AFL, independent and CIO Oil Workers' Unions today threatened further shortages of gasoline for the nation's motorists, truckers and air transport.

So far, the three-day-old strike of refinery and pipeline workers for a wage increase has brought voluntary rationing of gasoline to motorists in Boston; filling station pumps are running dry in the Chicago-Gary area; pickets halted gasoline deliveries to stations in Toledo, Ohio.

Government officials said a prolonged strike would bring on a major shortage of gasoline if the 45-day supply on hand is cut in half.

The petroleum administration for defense (PAD) ordered deliveries of some petroleum products prohibited to dealers or big consumers with more than 10 days' supply available in 17 eastern states.

Export of some major petroleum products was banned. Shipments from Pacific coast states, shipments of Canada and aviation gasoline were exempted.

The president of the American Truck Associations, Walter F. Mullady, said if highway freight transport is immobilized by a lack of fuel, "The supports could be knocked under from our whole standard of living."

Freeze on New Gas Accounts In Ohio Lifted By Ruling

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Ohio Fuel Gas distributors today won their fight to serve more heating customers. The State Utilities Commission authorized them to take on 40,000 new accounts.

The order, issued after a public hearing, thaws out a freeze of new or conversion gas units that held throughout last winter for all distributors except East Ohio Gas Co. in northern Ohio, and a few small firms.

Natural fuel gas has been a red-hot issue in Ohio since the frigid winter of 1950-51. Subzero temperatures for a considerable period caused extreme shortages in some communities, notably Toledo.

Some areas not hit so hard that winter, have fought persistently against the freeze. These cities were joined by makers of heating equipment and contractors who wanted to install gas heating equipment to help sell their new houses.

But, the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., a subsidiary of Columbia Gas System, Inc., and Ohio's largest retail distributor, sought to end the freeze. The company was supported by the city of Toledo and others.

The Commission announced the new customer figures for some 11 companies distributing gas to Ohio consumers.

The Cincinnati Gas and Electric Company which had asked the commission during a series of hearings for 11,214 new customers, was permitted 8,400 new customers. Of these 4,200 will be new installations, and 4,200 converted units.

In Cincinnati, only five per

240 Units Seen In Marion County

There will probably be about 240 gas heating installations in Marion County this summer, C. L. Baxter, manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. office here reported.

He said that on March 15 there were 748 applications on file and that about 32 per cent of them could be honored now that the State Utilities Commission had authorized the new accounts.

Baxter said he had received no official word as yet from the company on what procedure would be followed in allowing the new installations. He said in the past priority had been given to medical hardship cases and new construction.

He said there would probably be about 80 new installations and 80 conversion burners installed with the medical hardship cases receiving preference under the commission ruling.

17 Colts To Vie For Kentucky Derby Laurels

Winner Will Take $97,300 Providing All 3-Year-Olds Start

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Seventeen three-year old colts today were named for the 78th Kentucky Derby to be run over one mile and one-quarter at Churchill Downs tomorrow.

When the name of Mrs. Marion Dupont Scott's Pintor was dropped into the entry box shortly before the 10 a.m. Eastern Standard closing time the list was believed to be complete.

If all 17 face starter Ruby White at 4:30 p.m. EST, Saturday the race will have a gross value of $125,350 with a net of $97,300 going to the winner.

There was only one surprise among the entries, 10 of which were received Thursday. Ben Jones entered Calumet Farm's Top Blend as a running mate for the 7 to 5 favorite, Hill Gail. Top Blend won a six-furlong sprint at the Downs Monday in 1:11 4/5.

Legal Battle Moves Up To High Court

Both Sides Appeal; White House Meeting Set for Saturday

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The CIO steel workers, responding to a request from President Truman, today called off their strike while the big legal battle over government seizure of the mills shifted to the Supreme Court

Union President Philip Murray announced in Pittsburgh he had ordered his 650,000 men to go back to work "as soon as possible."

Union aides said they anticipated there would be working crews for the normal 3 p.m. (EST) mill shifts.

Murray also accepted an invitation from Truman to confer at the White House Saturday with industry leaders.

There had been no formal acceptance from the industry men but lawyers for the steel companies told reporters here the management representatives undoubtedly would accept.

On the legal side, the steel industry went to the Supreme Court with a plea that it (1) uphold the ruling by U. S. District Judge David A. Pine that Truman lacked any legal authority to seize the steel mills, and (2) forbid the government to raise wages while the court is considering the momentous issue.

Gets Jump on Gov't.

By this move, the industry got the jump on government attorneys who had planned themselves to take the case to the highest tribunal.

Nevertheless, the government went ahead and filed its own petition. This argued that the President, as commander in chief, had power to take over the steel industry, but said the government did not "urge that the President possesses unlimited powers."

The petition contended too that the power claimed for the President "in no sense can . . . be seen as dictatorial or without boundaries."

The court was in recess today but the justices have a regularly scheduled conference set for Saturday afternoon. They might decide then whether they will consider the case.

The court could grant a review to either the industry or the government. Normally, court aides said, the court would either grant both requests for hearings or deny both. If the requests were denied, the case would go back to the Court of Appeals here.

Truman's move for a White House conference with both sides seemed obviously aimed at trying to get them to agree on a working contract.

If this should develop, the Supreme Court might refuse to consider the case. The justices customarily decline to consider any case where the issue is "moot," as the legal phraseology goes.

That means one where there is no live issue remaining. And the central issue—government seizure—would be washed out if there were a contract agreement restoring the mills to their owners.

May Rule

On the other hand, the issue raised by Pine's ruling is so grave that the court might decide to rule even though the case was "moot."

Truman, saying he has no desire to be a dictator, has asserted that he certainly would comply with any Supreme Court decision.

The President appealed Thursday night for the steel workers to get back on the job as "loyal Americans."

By implication at least, his request carried notice too that if they did not the government might use the Taft-Hartley labor act and seek a court order for their return.

"The government is now in a position to continue the operation of the steel mills in the national interest," Truman said in a telegram made public shortly before midnight.

His request for a White House conference went to the presidents of six big steel companies as well as Murray.

Joseph Short, the President's press secretary, was asked today

May Day Riots In Japan Said Red-Inspired

More of Same Russian Policy, Says New Ambassador Murphy

TOKYO (AP) — American spokesmen said Japan's bloody anti-American May Day riots bore the "well known trademark of ruthless communism."

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said the riots, in which at least 1,800 were injured and possibly seven killed, were "clearly of alien inspiration."

U.S. Ambassador Robert D. Murphy called the riots "more of the same" Russian policy of sparking violence which he had seen in European cities.

The newly arrived ambassador narrowly missed injury from flying rocks. He told his first press conference he was surprised by the ugly anti-foreign outbreak.

But, he said, "I felt a little bit at home as I watched. I detected a certain classic pattern and the same type of formations" as he saw in Communist-led European demonstrations.

At the end of the 10-day period, if the dog is licensed and found to be non-rabid it will be returned to the owner.

New Marion Firm to Handle Defense Work

Service Corp. Of America To Operate Clerical Bureaus

A new Marion company has been formed to operate large clerical and tabulating bureaus throughout the country for the Department of Defense, Edwin J. Kinter of Marion, president, announced today.

The company, the Service Corporation of America, is a sister corporation of the Fulfillment Corp., of America, which Kinter also heads.

Service Corp. has been awarded an initial half-million dollar contract by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to handle clerical work at St. Louis, Mo., for the Engineers, Kinter announced.

Other Contracts

Contracts to handle similar work for Corps of Engineer stations in other cities are now being negotiated and negotiations will be started soon for work with other branches of the Armed Forces. Eventually, the company hopes to be operating Defense Department clerical bureaus in some 37 cities throughout the nation, at such scattered points as New Orleans, St. Louis, San Francisco, Brooklyn and Columbus, O.

Service Corp. headquarters will be located at 381 W. Center St., headquarters also for the Fulfillment Corp., which specializes in handling mailing work for many national magazines.

Other officers of the new company are Wendell B. Ward of Marion, executive vice president; Fred R. Jones of Marion, vice president and general manager; Stanley R. Franks of Marion, assistant general manager; Henry G. Walter Jr. of New York, secretary; and Jackson H. Taft of Marion, treasurer.

Will Direct Company

Active direction of the new company's work will be in the hands of Jones, former Fulfillment general manager, and Franks, formerly associated with Fulfillment, Kinter said. Both are recognized as tabulating specialists.

The turning over of government clerical and tabulating bureaus to private business is a new Department of Defense policy designed to integrate industry with the defense program, Kinter said. The bureaus now are operated by civil service personnel.

Believe Plane Blew Up Over Jungle

Find Airliner Wreckage; Fear All 50 Aboard Dead

BELEM, BRAZIL (AP)—Aerial rescue teams reported last night a luxurious Pan American airliner apparently was burning even before it crashed Tuesday in dense Brazilian jungle. Their leaders wrote off as dead all 50 persons the plane carried.

Maj. Richard Olney ordered his U. S. Air Force rescue unit from Puerto Rico to end its mission without parachuting to the site or trying to recover the bodies because it would endanger the lives of the rescuers.

Pan American officials in Rio De Janeiro also decided not to attempt reaching the wreckage by air but said they would organize a land expedition.

A Brazilian Air Force Catalina—a flying-boat patrol plane—planned, however, to land Brazilian medical rescue corpsmen on a river about 40 miles from the scene today in the hope they could hack through the nearly impenetrable growths.

Crew, 10 Passengers American

The airliner's crew of nine and 10 of the 41 passengers were Americans.

The airliner—making one of Pan American World Airways "El Presidente" trips from South America—took off from Rio De Janeiro shortly after dark Monday for a 12-hour night flight to Port of Spain, Trinidad, its only remaining stop before New York.

The plane reported by radio that all was well as it passed west of Barreiras, a mid-Brazilian town, shortly after midnight. The wreckage was discovered less than an hour's flight beyond the position given in its final report.

$10 Taken In School Burglary

A total of $10 in coin and postage stamps were taken from Meeker School in a breakin some time last night, Henry Nickel, school superintendent reported today. The method of entry to the building could not be determined, Nickel said.

A Red Cross container with $5 in change was taken from one of the class rooms and $5 in stamps was taken from the principal's office. No damage to any of the rooms was reported, and nothing else was disturbed, Nickel said. The breakin is under investigation by the Marion County sheriff's department.

Calls His Seizure Of Steel Illegal

GOP Candidate Speaks at Luncheon, Courthouse Rally

Sen. Robert A. Taft moved his campaign to Marion today, continuing his blistering attack on President Truman.

The President, said "Mr." Republican" who hopes to relieve Truman of the presidential title this fall, cannot legally seize the nation's steel mills. Truman could have seized the mills legally, as the railroads were seized, if Congress had enacted a special law, he said.

But the senior Ohio senator didn't recommend this course as being beneficial to steelworkers. He pointed out that although the government has held the nation's railroads for two years, rail workers have still not received the pay increase they sought.

Taft arrived in Marion from Mansfield shortly before noon and was guest of honor at a luncheon given by the 8th district central committee at Hotel Harding.

Speaks At Courthouse

After the luncheon he spoke from a platform at the westside of the Courthouse.

Taft, whose campaign for the Republican nomination as President has taken him to 40 states in the last six months, will wind up a whirlwind tour of Ohio Sunday, two days before the primary election.

From Barion, he goes this afternoon to Bowling Green and Toledo and Saturday he will make a number of speaking appearances in Cleveland. He will continue in the Cleveland area Sunday and will return to Washington Sunday night.

At Mansfield, Taft told some 400 persons that air power is the key to our defense.

"If we could build a wall of men across Europe we could not defend the countries there unless we had air power," he declared.

He said America should help Europe with money but that our spending must be "selective".

Must Do The Most Good

"Our money must go where it will do the most good for our defense. It is very definite that spending will have to be cut or the country will go further down the road towards socialism."

The Ohio senator said President Truman had developed a "new sense of federal power" in seizing the steel mills.

"If the President can seize steel mills, I see no reason why he can't seize union offices and union funds or draft steel workers and oil workers into the Army as he tried to do with railroad strikers in 1946," Taft asserted.

Taft said he didn't believe the Supreme Court would "act" on Federal Judge David Pine's ruling the seizure of the steel mills was constitutional.

A lot of Congressmen believe the Supreme Court will have the "last say" on the steel mill seizure plan, Taft said, but he believes Congress will.

Can Win Labor Support

In a speech at Akron Thursday night, Taft declared the Republicans can win American labor support in the presidential election.

Taft told an audience of 1,600 at Hower Trade School Auditorium he stands for driving out corruption that "brings with it waste, extravagance and high tax bills which cut into the workman's pay check and add to his cost of living," The Associated Press reported.

The American workman, he said, stands to benefit by this philosophy of government "as much or more than anyone else."

Of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's bid for the Republican nomination, Taft said he didn't believe the GOP convention could "make an intelligent choice" unless it knows the candidates' views.

The 14th congressional district Akron area is the only place in the state where Eisenhower could win a delegate from Taft. Judge Walter B. Wanamaker is running as a delegate pledged to rubber worker Kenneth Eisenhauer who has cast his vote for the general. Judge Wanamaker picked Eisenrauer's name from a telephone book because it is similar to the general's.

Taft also spoke at Hiram, Elyria and Medina Thursday.

Taft is being accompanied on his northern Ohio tour by Frank Avren of the state GOP headquarters, Paul Walter of Cleveland, his northern Ohio campaign manager, and a host of newsmen. Political writers from Chicago and

Prison Interview Spurs Hope

U.S. Renews Attempts To Free William Oatis

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials tackled with renewed hope today the task of trying to obtain the release of Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis from a Czechoslovak prison.

From Secretary of State Acheson down, they were obviously cheered by word the Czech Communist government had—for the first time — permitted American Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs to talk with Oatis.

The interview lasted half an hour, and was held Wednesday at Prague police headquarters, the department announced Thursday.

President Truman, commenting on this at his news conference Thursday, said the United States is going to do everything it can to get Oatis out of jail. He added Oatis has not been hungry, has reached a point where he can sleep—and recently got a haircut.

On Capitol Hill, Rep. Beamer (R-Ind) in a letter to Acheson today indicated he might hold up a proposed congressional check of department effort to free Oatis if "any negotiations now under way (are) of such delicacy and promise that a revival of urgent public interest in this question would endanger" them.

Oatis is a native of Marion, Ind

Details of Interview

Announcing the Briggs-Oatis interview, the State Department said Briggs had found Oatis in good health and arranged to supply him with cigarettes through the Czech foreign office.

Oatis asked for Shakespeare's works and for a book on harmony and composition, and these will soon be supplied him.

Acheson personally telephoned Mrs. Oatis at St. Paul, Minn., Wednesday evening to tell her of the development.

It was the first contact with the newsman by an American official or friend since Oatis was arrested by Czech Communist authorities on April 23 last year. He was later tried and convicted on what the United States has denounced as "trumped up" spy charges. His trial was reported by the embassy but all direct contact with him was denied.

Briggs has repeatedly asked to see Oatis to find out his condition and let him know that he has not been forgotten.

It took 53 weeks for the request to be granted.

Officials cautioned against interpreting the interview as a significent indication of what the Reds may do about giving Oatis his freedom. But they were noticeably pleased by this first break in the case

Retaliatory Measures

Since Oatis was arrested, the United States has banned travel of American citizens to Czechoslovakia, halted trade which once produced millions of dollars a year for Czechoslovagia, and has take nother retaliatory measures.

The Czechs presumably would want to negotiate on these matters in return for Oatis' release if and when they decide to free him.

HERE'S NEWS THAT COULD NOT BE SUPPRESSED

Another Chapter In The Story Behind The Seizure Of The Steel Mills

(An Editorial From The New York Daily Mirror, April 26, 1952)

Politics, Not Government

Slowly it all comes out. That is something that the news suppressors in Washington do not seem to understand. In Russia, the news can be suppressed at the source, because they shoot those who do not conform to the dictates of the masters. Here, where the worst the President can do is to call a man a liar, the news will in time be available and published.

So, it happens that John C. Bane, Jr., industry member of the Wage Stabilization Board's special steel panel, appeared before the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare to tell of the irregular procedures in that board when the so-called "steel package" came up for action. Mr. Bane said:

> "What I do know that would explain the strangeness of the board's extravagant wage recommendation is very little. As I have stated, a departure from the regulations was not suggested at any meeting of the panel or the board until late on the afternoon or evening of March 20th, at a meeting an hour or so before the board's recommendations were published. "At that meeting, the public members who attended, operating as usual under the potent leadership of Mr. Feinsinger, presented one by one the recommendations which made up the 'package' published later that evening. Among them was the recommendation that wages be increased by the 12½-cent to 17½-cent series of steps. No industry member of the board or the panel had ever heard of this proposal until then. In spite of that, the wage recommendation, like all others in the case, was approved at once, without discussion, by the votes of the public and labor members of the board. . . ."

Here is one of the most vital questions in our economy, a decision regarding which led to the seizure of the steel plants and the enunciation by the President of a doctrine of inherent powers—which is government by obiter dicta and not by law—and one hour's notice is all that is given for its consideration.

That is politics, not government. The decisions are not made by those who assume responsibility for them.

Actually, the Wage Stabilization Board is a packed agency. The labor and public members vote together against the industry members. The board is dominated by its chairman, Nathan P. Feinsinger, who has, since 1947, oposed the Taft-Hartley Law and is not likely to use its provisions if he can help using them. Mr. Bane's statement repeats the question: "Why did the board depart from its regulations?"

Obviously, Mr. Feinsinger does not find it necessary to abide by regulations or even to report to his own board. Mr. Bane concluded:

> ". . . It now means that the board has no particular standards or limits in the establishment of wages. Its only standard is to be its own more or less discreet pleasure. What a union gets, in short, under this precedent, may depend on its peculiar standing in the favor or disfavor of the board, and perhaps the amount of political and social pressure it can exert on the public members of the board. To an American lawyer, government of this kind is abhorrent; it is government by men, not by law."

Naturally, when a president rules without law, his subordinates will imitate him. Now every little bureaucrat will make his own rules and change them at will. The law is being subordinated not only to the whim of the President, but to the wishes of little board chairmen.

Maybe Congress needs to investigate whether Congress itself has anything to do with the laws of this country.

It Is Your Fight

If you are opposed to the Un-American-like methods, as described by the Mirror, which led to the seizure of the steel mills, you are anxious to have the whole story brought out into the open. The House of Representatives voted 255 to 88 last Thursday to bring this about through an investigation of the Wage Stabilization Board by its Labor Committee.

It is your privilege as an American citizen to advise your representatives in Congress of your interest in and support of this investigation which begins in Washington May 6.

Write for copies of Mr. Bane's testimony and the booklet "Facts in the Steel Controversy."

Mink Coats Back In Capitol News

WASHINGTON (AP)—A couple more mink coats made unseasonable news in mink-shy Washington Thursday

The furs were credited by House tax scandal investigators to James B E Olson, free-spending former revenue official who resigned under investigation last August as chief of the New York alcohol tax unit

Treasury agents told a house committee Wednesday among the $36,000 of unexplained cash outlay made by Olson while a government tax official was $2 855 for a mink coat and $2 800 for a silver blue mink stole

Both purchases were in 1947 and 1948 when Olson was an $8,000-a-year tax agent The payments were in addition to $500-down deposits

Canada has increased its hydroelectric power output by starting kilowatt production at the Des Joachims, Chenaux, and La Cave developments in Ontario.

Stand Pat On Loan Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP)—The revenue bureau is standing pat on its rulings that loans to political parties, if they cannot be collected, may be deducted on tax returns as bad debts

The bureau is rejecting a suggestion by Sen Williams (R-Tex) that its rulings in four such cases be reversed

A bureau spokesman made this clear Thursday, although Revenue Commissioner John B Dunlap declined official comment pending an investigation by House tax scandal probers headed by King (D-Calif)

The tax bureau said, however, that to be legally deductible, loans to political parties must be valid loans and every effort must be made to collect them The spokesman said "certainly" the bureau would examine such cases closely to make certain they are not actually political contributions, which cannot be deducted

Williams said in a Senate speech Tuesday that three wealthy men made contributions totalling $410,110 to the New York State Democratic Committee between 1940 and 1948 and the Revenue Bureau, in "special" rulings, counted the donations as unpaid loans that could be deducted from tax returns as bad debts

Williams said the Democratic party was financing its political campaign indirectly out of the federal treasury'

Customs Rules Stringent

Red Tape Complicates Travel For Americans

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — A record number of Americans are expected to travel to foreign lands this summer. And a majority likely will find their feet tangled in red tape

A drive is under way today to smooth their path. The drive actually is little more than a squawk as yet. But Congress is being urged to simplify customs rules, and other countries are being asked to cut away the costly and irritating red tape in international trade and travel. Uncle Sam, incidentally, is said to be one of the worst offenders.

First-time international travellers will be more numerous than ever—and the most likely to be confused and harassed — Sir William P. Hildred, director general of the International Air Transport Association, fears. He predicts that the new low-fare tourist service across the Atlantic which the airlines start today will bring trans-Atlantic passengers this year to 600,000, as against 340,000 last year

"The procedures of customs, health and immigration inspectors will be entirely new and probably irksome to them," he says. He thinks the 11 airlines on the trans-Atlantic route will find it easier to transport this flood of new travellers than to soothe their tempers during the checks and delays of border crossings. And he pleads for streamlining.

A BUSINESSMEN'S group — the United States Council of the International Chamber of Commerce — agrees It appeals today to government officials, legislators, businessmen, farmers, workers and the general public to pressure governments everywhere to remove unnecessary red tape.

The council has ideas about what should be done A passport should be all the identification needed, it says Entry visas should be abolished wherever they are still used

Police certificates of good conduct are just meaningless paper work, the council adds. Nor should governments continue the common practice of insisting on surrender of passports to government officials.

The period of vaccinations, inoculations and certificates of health should be standardized. Some governments won't accept a smallpox vaccination as valid after one year, and some will up to three years.

* * *

SOME OF THE complexities of foreign travel and trade are being attacked in a customs simplification bill which the U. S House has passed and sent to the Senate.

The trouble importers have with present U. S customs procedure is noted today in the May survey of the Guaranty Trust Co of New York For example

"Customs officers do not simply levy duties on the value stated in the consular invoice" the bank says. "Rather, they must ascertain the 'foreign value'—the price at which the merchandise is freely offered in the country of origin — and also the 'export value'—the price at which it is freely offered for export — and then use whichever is higher in billing the importer."

The bill before the Senate Finance committee elliminates "foreign value" as a criterion. The bank thinks there's a good chance the Senate will pass it this summer.

THE MOST DANGEROUS KIND OF LOBBYIST

The pleasure over the news that the citizens of Ohio finally will be allowed to have their Turnpike is marred by wonder over who's running this state.

The Legislature authorized the new thoroughfare two years ago.

Then the Ohio Supreme Court okayed it.

But this week, a bunch of rural legislators—the very people who have kept Ohio from having a decent highway system—tried to wreck the turnpike again

And the No 1 lobbyist was the most dangerous kind of all

He was an INSIDE lobbyist — an actual member of the State House of Representatives.

* * *

This man Rep J E Simpson of the town of Forest in Hardin County, had the gall for two days to use every delaying trick to sabotage the Turnpike

He did this as chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, which had been entrusted with the legislation

Yet Simpson is PRESIDENT of the Capital Cartage Co, a Columbus trucking firm.

ATTORNEY for a number of downstate trucking interests.

(Big truckers don't like turnpikes). They want their roads free).

And, since the Columbus city directory lists his residence as Columbus, it's doubtful whether he even can legally represent the people of Hardin County from which he is supposed to be elected.

* * *

Perhaps at this moment the citizens of Ohio have no way to protect themselves against INSIDE lobbyists.

But they certainly can, and must, question such tactics, so dangerous to the democratic way of doing things.

Lobbyists who openly represent points of view have an understandable function. They can be regulated.

But a member of the Legislature with his own personal ax to grind is something quite different.

In a high position as committee chairman, like Simpson, he can do irreparable damage to the will of the people.

Taft Has Earned the Delegates

CONTESTS for Ohio's district and at-large delegates to the Republican national convention have not developed according to expectations.

When Harold E. Stassen decided to make his second bid for Ohio Republican support against Sen. Robert A. Taft, it was expected that the delegate contest would be like the one in 1948.

But when it developed that Stassen was not seeking delegates for himself but only as a stalking horse for Gen. Eisenhower, the prospect for a real contest changed abruptly.

When it developed further that Eisenhower Republicans in Ohio could see no merit in stringing along with the Stassen strategy, political observers began to predict a clean sweep of the delegate contests in Sen. Taft's favor.

In other words, the Stassen stalking-horse strategy did not jell in Ohio. It was discredited by Stassen's failure with the strategy in other states where he ran on the same basis.

It can be predicted with reasonable certainty that Sen. Taft will win Ohio's 56 delegates to the Republican convention next Tuesday.

This is as it should be.

Sen. Taft has earned a clear right to the support of Ohio Republicans in his bid for their party's presidential nomination. He has been the leader of the party in the Senate. He has been its most influential leader in policy-making in Congress.

During a period in which executive domination of the government threatened to undermine the constitutional concept of balanced power, Sen. Taft has fought courageously and intelligently to stem the tide.

In a system of government which relies on the dynamic existence of a loyal opposition, he has been tireless in behalf of the minority party.

If he has not earned the complete support of party members in his own state in behalf of his bid for the Republican presidential nomination, there is no such thing as loyalty or gratitude in politics.

If Sen. Taft fails to win the nomination it is a dead certainty that he will work as enthusiastically and tirelessly for some other nominee as he would have worked for himself had he won the nomination.

That is his way in politics. He would have supported Mr. Stassen in 1948, if Mr. Stassen had won the nomination. As it was, he supported Gov. Dewey. He will be loyal in 1952 if the nomination goes to someone else.

A vote for the Taft district and at-large delegates next Tuesday will be a vote in recognition of faithful service to the party by a statesman who has done more than any individual Republican these recent years to keep the two-party system intact.

Secretary Sawyer's Discretion

AS SOON as the U.S. Court of Appeals had ruled that the government could retain possession of the steel mills pending appeal of Federal Judge Pine's ruling that seizure had been illegal, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer became a government official of discretion.

When the same court refused to enjoin him from making a settlement with the union, he became an official of extreme discretion. It is to his credit that he decided promptly not to abuse his position. He said he would do nothing until the confusion had cleared up.

That left the steelworkers union and the steel companies management betwixt and between pending the final, definitive ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court on the government's appeal from Judge Pine's ruling. And it gave secretary Sawyer a chance to point out that Congress cannot afford to mark any more time in a situation which has rocked the country to its core.

Industrywide bargaining has become, for better or worse, the going practice. Union officials have the power to create nationwide deadlocks with combinations of management like the combination in the steel controversy.

It would have been better for the United States if the labor monopoly had been curbed before it gained this power. But that was not done. What must be done now is another matter—a legislative reaction from the threat of national paralysis induced in the name of collective bargaining.

Reaction From May Day

IN THE new way of celebrating May Day in the United States—with affirmations of loyalty to the principles of a Christian society—there is firm proof of a basic proposition in human affairs.

Every action produces a reaction.

The reaction balances the action.

This is the pattern which protects civilized society from extremists.

In 1889, May Day was taken over by the Second (Socialist) International for mass demonstrations against the accepted order. This action produced a reaction—the decision of Communists to take over May Day from the Socialists. That, in turn, caused the Socialists to abandon May Day, leaving it to the Communists.

For the last half dozen years, patriotic and religious organizations in the United States have been staging observances which have been getting more attention than the Communists ever mustered.

Outlook in Texas

By Raymond Moley

Both Parties Face Bitter Contests

AUSTIN, TEXAS

THE QUESTION whether Eisenhower could carry Texas as a Republican is an important factor in the general's campaign over the nation. It is hotly discussed in Texas and it will be important in the series of party conventions this month. After a week in Houston and Austin, during which I have discussed the question with many people, the answer seems to be "maybe," with certain qualifications. It is fairly clear that no other Republican would have a chance. Beyond that, deponent sayeth not.

I may add that on my first day in Texas I was clearer about Texas prospects than I am on the seventh. For, so confused is the picture that the more you learn, the more "ifs" and "ands" appear. The highly tentative political prospects here can be made more understandable, however, by an outline of what is going to happen between now and the national conventions in July.

Bitter contests in both parties will start on May 3rd when the precinct conventions meet to select delegates to the county conventions a few days later. These precinct affairs are the only occasions where the common citizen has a whack at the nominating process. After these are held, the citizen's interest is entirely delegated.

* * *

AT THE COUNTY conventions delegates are selected for the state conventions later in May. There the delegates to the national conventions will be selected.

It is taken for granted that throughout this series there will be bitter rows, bolts, rump conventions, and all the rest of the joy that goes with confused politics.

In the Republican precinct conventions the fight will be between the Taft and the Eisenhower forces. The Taft side is headed by National Committeeman Henry Zweifel. The guess of most observers is that more Eisenhower supporters will appear at these conventions than Taft people, but that because of superior organization and experience the Taft side will finally control the delegation to Chicago.

* * *

IN THE DEMOCRATIC conventions the contest is between the co-called Truman loyalists and the forces now lead by Governor Shivers. The latter will probably wrest complete control of the Democratic Party in Texas from the former. In these Democratic conventions the specific issue will be whether delegates will be pledged all along the line to the decision of the national convention. The Shivers forces want complete freedom to act as the occasions dictate. It seems probable that the Shivers organization will prevail and that there will be no pledges.

What may happen if the Chicago convention selects a candidate and writes a platform which the Shivers group cannot accept is a real revolt. This may take the form of swinging the votes of the state to Russell if he decides to run as a third candidate, or, if he does not, going on record for Eisenhower by action of either the Democratic state executive committee or the state convention in September. Apparently this can be done under the new election law, although that legislation has not been clearly interpreted. This is contingent on Eisenhower's getting the Republican nomination.

Thus, with all these "ifs" and "ands," it is hard to predict the result in Texas.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Early settlers of Marion County were protected by a troop of horsemen called the Light Horse Guards, stationed at Big Island. This small company made frequent excursions through the settlements, and kept a vigilant watch over the property, life and interests of the settlers. Also they apprehended and punished any band of Indians they found committing depredations of any character against the white settlers.

Whooping It Up

By TRUMAN TWILL

Young Indians on reservations, says one of those little news sparklers, are losing touch with their folkways. They no longer can do the old chants and dances. They can't whoop it up any more in the old-fashioned way.

Most of us are in the same fix. We cannot harness a horse, make our own soap, dip candles, perform a Virginia reel, card wool, weave homespun or fabricate a johnny cake.

But it never occurs to us that we are letting any folkways slip through our fingers because we have ceased to have a working acquaintance with things no longer being done. We don't know how to shoot buffalo, build a fire in the rain, track wild game, send up smoke signals, build a lean-to of bark, or snare fish out of a gurgling brook, either.

As far as old chants are concerned, our knoweldge is limited to "Seeing Nellie Home" and "I Want a Girl Just Like the Girl That Married Dear Old Dad." We do not know all the words to "Yankee Doodle" and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Perhaps we should be as concerned about this as those who worry about Indians. Perhaps it isn't safe for a civilization to move on to the new without keeping hold of the old. But how could it be arranged?

Who is going to drive a span of oxen in an age of tractors? In those underprivileged parts of the country so backward oxen still are being used of necessity, there is a big push to snatch the natives into modernity. They must be forced to share in progress.

Their one-room schoolhouses must be replaced with centralized schools. Their water must be certified as safe for drinking, and their ideas must be certified too. They must be taught to pay income taxes, carry social security cards, bathe in tubs and slurp pasteurized milk.

They must learn about present dangers and future threats. There will be no time left in their new life for McGuffey readers and muzzle loaders. The wheels of progress must be slipped under them and they must be given a shove toward the more abundant life. Thereafter, the only sentiment they will waste on the old ways will be while lying on a psychiatrist's cot explaining what they used to do before their brains went whrrrt.

If they strike it rich, they can reconstruct the past a al Williamsburg or Dearborn, with modern conveniences included. Or they can collect old flails, iron pots and bed warmers. But these hoardings will be only temporary—soon forgotten in the rush to the future.

The old ways will be jumbled and lost. Eventually, an archeologist digging among the ruins will jump to the conclusion that the feller who hollered via the phonograph in 1952 must have been an aborigine being burned at the stake, which will be as good an explanation of the phenomenon as any.

The Flood To Fear

The State Can Do No Wrong

By George E. Sokolsky

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S assertions, directly or indirectly, concerning his powers, are not the unconsidered statements of an angry or a tired man. They originate in a philosophy of the state which has been given thought for at least a century in modern times. It used to be called socialism; today it is often called "the welfare state."

Henry A. Wallace once stated the case with greater frankness than Mr. Truman dares to employ. He said:

"All those who are concerned about the welfare state and call it statism are afraid of the future. The future belongs to the welfare state and there is no alternative short of anarchy on the one side or complete totalitarianism on the other. Those who evoke a strong feeling for ancient customs and ancient institutions in order to preserve anarchic capitalism can only succeed eventually in throwing us into the totalitarianism of the right. . . . . ."

By "anarchic capitalism," Henry Wallace obviously meant private enterprise, competition, the free use of earnings—the mechanisms of capitalism which are characteristic of the American economy. When Mr. Truman seized the steel industry, he did nothing more reprehensible, from the American standpoint, than Mr. Roosevelt did when he made gold a government monopoly, or than he did when he used government funds, taken from the taxpayer, to set up "yardstick industries."

* * *

IT IS ALL part of a theory that the necessities of the state over-ride the rights of the individual.

Those who favor the welfare state fall into the fallacy that the state can do no wrong; that is, that those in control can do no wrong. President Truman takes the position, for instance, that he has "inherent powers," that his powers are "unlimited" when they affect the general welfare, of which he is the sole judge. Henry Wallace would regard Mr. Truman neither as a philosopher nor a New Dealer; yet Wallace's ideas have left a permanent mark upon the thinking of those who, by intellectual superiority, control Mr. Truman's mind.

It is startling to think of what passed as wisdom in the Roosevelt days. One need only to read Whittaker Chambers' book, "Witness," to note the glib conversation among such persons as Harry Dexter White, who was the brains of the Treasury, or Alger Hiss, who was the brains of the State Department, or George Silverman, who rose to high position in the Air Force, to realize what a devil's brew was being concocted for us.

* * *

HENRY WALLACE wrote:

". . . With the passing of the Feudal age humanity emerged from the age of status to the age of contract. Under the rule of status in the Middle Ages each person was assigned to a particular spot and a particular job. The age of contract brought freedom, stimulating, creative, and anarchic. It unleashed great forces which resulted in great wars. Now humanity is ready to pass from the more or less enlightened selfishness of the age of contract to the age of the general welfare."

This is a paraphrase of a famous passage in Karl Marx's "Communist Manifesto," but that is not to say that Wallace is or ever was a Marxist. However, in the jumble of ideas which produces the welfare state, socialism is the prevailing concept. It is always essential to do good in order to increase manpower.

* * *

MANPOWER is a word of slavery, for in a free society, man is what matters, the individual man, not the mass. Manpower involves the idea of human beings manipulated by the State; fed and clothed and housed by those who know what is best for them—by the great minds that are never wrong, even when they produce disasters, like the one in Korea. Manpower means that the human being is only as good as his production—to each according to what he produces.

It is an immoral concept because it ignores individuality, taste, desire. Suppose a fellow risks poverty to be a poet and can't pay taxes, is it such a wrong idea? Suppose a man wants to produce nothing but ideas that nobody accepts, like Socrates or Galileo—is he to be sent to the mines? The sanctity of the individual man is lost in the concept of manpower.

Yet, that is what the welfare staters believe to be true—the state can do no wrong and whoever controls the state is king.

The Pendulum Swings

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

THROUGH MOST of American history the courts could issue injunctions against unions, forbidding strikes. Organized labor fought this as an infringement on workers' rights and a one-sided deal for employers.

In 1932 Congress passed the Norris-LaGuardia act, banning court injunctioning against strikes. But employers still didn't have to bargain with a union. President Roosevelt's administration changed that in 1935 with the Wagner Act which compelled employers to bargain.

But the Wagner Act didn't say unions had to bargain in good faith and employers now did the complaining. They said the act was loaded for labor unions. The situation remained unchanged until 1947 when the Republicans got control of Congress. They passed the Taft-Hartley act, with the help of a lot of Demoorats. This, among other things, now compelled unions to bargain in good faith.

* * *

THE PENDULUM had swung the other way again. Union leaders denounced T-H. So did President Truman who had and still has the support of many labor union leaders. It became a political issue. The Democrats made repeal of T-H a plank in their 1948 party platform. They won back control of Congress that year and have had it since. But they haven't repealed T-H.

With the Wagner Act, the government got neck-deep in labor-management relations. With T-H it was empowered to intervene even more because T-H covers so much more territory.

And T-H restored some of the old injunctive powers of the courts, but with a limit. It said when a strike threatened the national welfare, the President could get a court order stopping it for 80 days.

If there still was no settlement by then, the union could strike. So T-H doesn't permit an injunction forbidding a strike. It only delays a strike. Why didn't Congress write into T-H injunctive power to prevent a vital strike altogether? The members shied away from that drastic step.

* * *

CAME THE PRESENT steel dispute. Instead of using T-H, President Truman tried persuasion. He got the Steelworkers to delay their strike three months. By April 8, when there was still no agreement, they began to walk out.

Again Truman by-passed T-H. He seized the steel industry instead of using the T-H injunction to delay for another 80 days a strike which the workers themselves already had delayed for three months.

The President claimed constitutional power to take the mills, a view now being debated in court. While he held them, he asked Congress to help solve the problem. Congress did nothing but criticize Truman while the workers stayed on their jobs.

Now the strike. And now there is agitation in Congress to do what it shied away from in T-H; Ban a vital strike indefinitely and even let a judge appoint a board of managers to run a threatened industry.

* * *

THAT PROPOSAL came from Rep. Smith, Virginia Democrat, who also suggested that Congress get into the act by voting itself authority to step into a strike situation by aking for an injunction.

Although organized labor praised the Wagner Act and management damned it, and while management praised T-H and labor damned it, both acts meant less freedom for employers and employes and more government control.

Neither act was an accident. They were the result of accumulated pressures.

And while organized labor screams for government help against employers and the latter look for government help against employes, whenever the government steps in on one side, the pen-

Daily Bible Thought

The dispensations of fate are sometimes staggering in bewilderment. Indispensable men are taken! May there not be tremendous work for them on the other side? Wait and see! "I was dumb. I opened not my mouth. Because thou didst it."—Ps. 39:9.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Invitation Accepted

Wherein a Standard Oil of New Jersey stockholder replies to a letter from the Chairman of the Board inviting him to the annual meeting:

Dear Chairman—I can't tell you how relieved I was to get your invitation. I was afraid I might not get one this year on account of the way I acted last year, helping myself to three cuts of apple pie, taking home a sandwich and not paying close attention to the annual reports, etc. You say the party will be thrown May 28, at the Bayway Refinery, Linden, N.J., due to the fact the meeting there last year proved so satisfactory to shareholders. Well, I liked it there, also. I get around to quite a few parties but there are not many chances to attend one in an oil refinery, although some of the guests at house parties manage to get pretty well lubricated.

* * *

You say June has proved inconvenient to some people which is why you have switched it to May. April, May or June are all the same with me. I am a picnicking stockholder from away back and would even attend in July and August so long as the free lunch was good. "I am looking forward with pleasure to meeting you," your invitation says. Thanks, and I feel the same way about you. I do not look much like a Standard Oil stockholder as I need a haircut and a new pair of shoes, but I will wear a spray of proxies in my lapel so you can identify me.

* * *

You say shuttle buses will run without charge between Elizabeth and Linden starting at 8:15 a.m. Who goes to the meeting that early and if so does he get lunch sooner? (Also do you think it looks good for a Standard Oil shareholder to ride on a bus without paying his fare?) Your note says that in addition to some good clean refinery fun and food you want me to vote on two items: (1) Price & Waterhouse as auditors again; (2) a proposal for cumulative voting that would give shareholders a representative on the board. You ask me to vote against the second idea and I wish you had not brought this up on account of I will feel a little awkward tackling the free lunch and yet voting the other way.

* * *

I don't see what's so wrong about stockholders having a man on the board, but I will be glad to talk this over with you while we have a hotdog and cup of coffee together on the company. (I take three lumps and heavy cream. But do we have to stick to coffee?) If I should not show up you ask me to send in my proxies. No chance. I am as good as on the Standard Oil shuttle bus already. Don't be surprised if I get there before Price, Waterhouse and the caterer with the grub and coke.

Sincerely
You-Know-Who.

P.S.—You must come over to see me sometime, too. No free shuttle but I will meet you in a flivver. No proxies, either; just dry martinis and canapes.

News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO—It was Saturday, May 2, 1942.

The city of Mandalay, blackened by fire and its golden temples smashed by Japanese bombs, was reported to have fallen to Japan's invasion armies as the battle of Burma verged on another major disaster for the allies.

A total of 14 passengers and a crew of three were killed when a sleeper transport ploughed into a storm-lashed ridge within sight of the airport at Salt Lake City, Utah.

Dr. Frederick G. Smith, who was to report within five days to the commanding officer of the North Atlantic Division in New York City for service as a captain in the army medical corps, was given a farewell dinner at the Smith Clinic.

Miss Mary Jane Ray, a bride-elect of the month, was an honor guest when Miss Mary Rita Murphy entertained with a luncheon at Hotel Harding. Miss Ray was the fiancee of Thomas E. Gray.

Mrs. Florence Short of 419 Girard Ave. left for a visit with friends and relatives in Los Angeles and San Diego, Calif.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—It was Monday, May 2, 1932.

Al Capone was denied a review by the United States Supreme Court of his conviction for evading income taxes. This meant that he lost his last legal chance of escaping his 11-year sentence.

Will Rogers in his daily dispatch, this one sent from Santa Monica, Calif., wrote: "Well about all you can see in the papers is Honolulu. The whole thing just proves that the islands haven't got any use for the navy and the mainland. Course I guess I am all wet, but I never have seen any reason why us, or any other nation should hold in subjection of any kind, any island, or country outside of our own. We say we have to have it to protect the Pacific. Why don't we have to have the Azores to protect the Atlantic? We are going to get into a war some day either over Honolulu or the Philippines."

Mrs. Phoebe Ann Gunder, 91, widow of John M. Gunder, Union County cattle raiser, died at the home of her son, M. H. Gunder of W. Center St.

J. A. Wilkins, councilman from the first ward, announced that he was going to resign as a member of council preparatory to leaving for Michigan to live on a farm near Lansing.

Mrs. Margaret Morrison was elected president of the Eagles Auxiliary.

Members of the Delta Eta Club closed their season with dinner and bridge at the Mautz tea room southeast of Marion. Hostesses for the evening were Miss Glada McMahan and Miss Viola Peacock.

Widow Sees Dream Come True

Baseball Great's Story Being Told In Film

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

FATE AND THE MOVIES have balanced the books for Mrs. Grover Cleveland Alexander.

The widow of one of baseball's greatest pitchers has lived to see her own love story immortalized on film — and 20 years of hard times which followed her husband's retirement from Big League ball miraculously have been rolled back.

She is once more the hero's wife. The dreary side of baseball life has been forgotten. Only the glamor and glitter remain, polished to a new radiance by the special technique of Hollywood.

I sat across a luncheon table from this sprightly, blue-eyed lady a few days ago, and observed the shine of happiness on her face, which retains much of what must have been dazzling beauty in her girlhood.

She had just arrived from Hollywood, where she sat in as technical adviser during filming of the story of her husband's life, to be released soon under the title, "The Winning Team." She's going to be a guest of honor at the world premiere of the movie, and will do a tour of the country in advance of the opening. She's having one wonderful time. The only shadow on it all is that Alex isn't here to take some of the bows. But she says:

"Maybe, somehow, he does know."

* * *

OLD-TIMERS STILL REMEMBER the invincible magic of Grover Cleveland Alexander's pitching arm, and the way the whole country went wild when he was sent in to pitch the seventh inning of the seventh game of the 1926 World Series, with the series tied 3 games to 3 the Cardinals leading in the game 3 to 2, the Yankees with the bases loaded and Tony Lazzeri coming to bat! Alexander struck him out and went on to win the series for the Cards.

Alexander retired from Big League baseball in 1930, a champion to the end. But he lived 20 years after his great days were over, and often, says his widow, the going was tough. His triumphs came before the days of fabulous baseball salaries, and, like many champs, he never was one to save much money.

He managed to eke out a living by lecturing at luncheon clubs and schools, and for a while played ball with the House of David. Mrs. Alexander worked too, to help make ends meet, and they lived a good deal on the glories of the past.

* * *

BUT NOW THE PAST has become the present again. The romance of the gangling Nebraska farm boy and the beautiful Aimee Arrants, a farmer's daughter, comes to life again on the screen. Ronald Reagan plays the part of Alexander, Doris Day is Aimee. Says the original Aimee:

"I couldn't have wished for better actors to play Alex and me. They even seem to understand the way we thought, when my father wanted Alex to give up baseball and be a farmer, and the other times in our lives when there were decisions to make."

Mrs. Alexander thinks there's nothing like baseball for building sportsmanship and character. She says:

"If more women were baseball fans, they'd understand the importance of encouraging their children to take up all kinds of sports — and we'd have less juvenile delinquency."

As for the life of a baseball wife . . .

"There's nothing like it."

Weddings

The Shrine of Our Lady of Consolation Church in Carey was the scene of the wedding of Miss Ruth Droll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Droll of near Carey, and Wilfred Thiel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orbin Thiel of Marion. The Rev. Theodore Eickholtz, pastor, heard the exchange of vows at the double ring ceremony at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Selections for the nuptial suite were played preceding the ceremony. Father Ronald sang Veni Domine Jesu at the Offertory and Ave Verum Corpus at the Communion.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of waltz length with a nylon yoke trimmed in lace appliqued design. The long lace sleeves ended with points over the wrist. The very full skirt was made with inserts of lace brought to a pointed design, combined with nylon, to just above the hem. The dress buttoned to below the waist with tiny lace butons. The double net skirts were made over satin. Her fingertip veil was fashioned with an orange blossom tulle crown. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses with shower and lovers knots. Her only jewelry was a rhinestone necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Elinor Thiel, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of blue net over taffeta with a fitted bodice, Peter Pan collar, puff sleeves and a full skirt of ballerina length. She carried a colonial bouquet of deep pink carnations tied with matching ribbon.

Two From Marion Named To State Music Club Posts

Two Marion residents were appointed to new positions in junior music club counseling Saturday at the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs annual junior group festival at Youngstown. Several young Marion musicians were among 300 taking part in the competitions. The festival was held at the Dana School of Music of Youngstown College. Parents and teachers attended.

Mrs. Ralph E. Mills of 375 Hane Ave. was appointed counselor of the junior division, Ohio Federation of Music Clubs, by the new state president, Mrs. Harry A. Combs of Columbus. She succeeds Mrs. Harry Mautz of 236 S. Seffner Ave. who was appointed state student council chairman. Mrs. Mills is also state chairman of religious education in the federation.

Mrs. Mautz, an active member of the Lecture-Recital Club here many years, served in the capacity of Junior Lecture-Recital Club counselor 11 years, and was counselor of the Central District, Ohio Federation of Music Clubs, prior to her appointment as state counselor. She was presented a gift from district counselors.

Mrs. David W. Evans, chairman of life and special memberships for the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs and a member of the board, was a guest on the program and gave a short talk. She announced that Sally Schneider of Marion is the first special junior member in the state.

Wins Superior Rating

Highest rating awarded the young music club members in the competitions, a grade of "superior," was won by Sally Schneider, piano soloist of the Marion Youth Lecture-Recital Club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Schneider of 407 Forest St., and a student of Mrs. H. T. Williams and is a ninth grade student at Vernon Heights Junior High School. This is her tenth year in taking part in the state festivals, and her second time as a "superior" pianist. Her numbers were "Des Abens," Schumann, and "Poloniase Americaine," Carpenter.

Other ratings given at the festival to Marion Youth Club piano entrants included, for Madalin Marsh, daughter of a Morrow County minister, the Rev. Kenneth Marsh of near Mt. Gilead, and Mrs. Marsh, "excellent," and Linnea Gonzalez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Gonzalez of near Marion, "very good." In the voice classification, Evelyn Price, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Price of 206 Carhart St., was given a mark of "excellent." Information concerning ratings of two other members of the Marion group taking part, Ruth Bosley and Delores Seiter, and on the club's scrapbook, were to be made known by the state headquarters in a later listing.

Others Participating

Representatives of the Marion Junior Lecture-Recital Club included Ruth Ellen Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Jones of Herman St., entered in the Intermediate Soprano Class III of the voice division whose rating is on the reserved list yet to be announced. She sang "By the Bend of the River," Edwards, and "Evening Prayer," Gabriel. Judy Dickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Dickson of Delaware Ave., was entered in the Elementary Piano Class I division. She played "Dancing Puppets," Scher, and "Valse Melodique," Ketterer, with a rating of "very good." The teachers are Mrs. Eugene H. Moore and Mrs. C. W. Davis. Roger Jamison, president of the junior club, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jamison, was to have entered the Very Difficult Piano Solo division but was unable to attend.

Of interest to residents here was announcement of the enrollment of a new club, the Chardon Junior Crescendo Club, composed entirely of boys, in which the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mautz, Mrs. Robert Neill of Chardon, is counsellor. Her sons, John and Robert Neill, are members of the new group and took part in the festival at Youngstown with high ratings.

Joseph Thomas of Ashland, a grandson of Joseph Thomas of Wilson Ave. and nephew of Mrs. H. T. Williams, won a "superior" rating in the festival for the fourth year. He was entered in the Difficult Piano Solo division. This fourth successive "superior" grade entitles him to a Gold Certificate and pin presented by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

GOT HIS BURGLAR. Guys like Hopalong Cassidy and the Lone Ranger haven't got anything on 11-year-old Dennis Gaffney, shown examining his police sergeant father's service revolver in home in Los Angeles. Dennis woke up to find a burglar in his bedroom. He excused himself, ostensibly to go to the bathroom, but actually got that gun and captured the burglar.

Waldo Mothers Study Club Holds Meeting

Mrs. Marian McMahan was hostess, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Fogle, for a recent meeting of the Waldo Mothers Study Club. Mrs. Helen Peak led devotions. The study topic, "How to Handle Anger in Young Children," was given by Mrs. Irene Augenstein.

Mrs. Sarah Beckel, new president, announced committees for next year. The program committee will include Mrs. Gene Denzer, Mrs. Corrine Denzer and Mrs. Marjorie Demorest, and members of the sunshine committee are Mrs. Fogle and Mrs. Lozella Dunlap.

Mrs. Dunlap, retiring president, conducted business, during which the constitution was read by Mrs. Beckel. Plans were made to hold guest day June 10 at Ringer's Inn.

During the social hour, a guessing box was won by Mrs. Beckel and an award in cootie went to Mrs. Imogene Helmlich. Mrs. Ruby Bogart was a guest.

One Thing You Can't Buy... New Eyes

Oh, yes, glass eyes, of course, but the other kind, no. Here in 31 years we have seen some pretty sad sights — neglect — carelessness—pride, and false economy are the culprits that have caused unending sorrow. Don't wait another day—be examined—learn the truth.

We make a complete scientific examination of your eyes and our laboratory uses the finest materials in manufacturing your glasses.

Atomic Bomb Buffets 2,000 Marines in Test

(AP)—More than 2 000 Marines have taken the roughest buffeting ever dished out to troops by an atom bomb, but the majority seems sold on the bomb as a friend in the field

The fiery low-level burst on Yucca Flat Thursday decimated much of their equipment within 300 yards of Ground Zero but the two picked combat battalions came charging out of their foxholes on signal from their maeuver commander, Brig Gen Joseph C Burger of Camp Pendleton Calif

While high ground radiation kept troops from moving to Ground Zero Gen Burger said that "in a battlefield situation we would have had no fear of going through"

The advance was halted within 500 yards of the target which was surrounded with burning planes, trucks and smashed machineguns —showing graphically what would have happened to the enemy.

One M-7 tank was blown 80 feet and flipped on its back, Gen Burger said

But he pointed out to his men that dummies placed in close-up foxholes received very slight damage whereas dummies placed upright above ground farther back were completely destroyed

State Official Presents Views

Declares School District Reorganization Inevitable

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Assistant State Director of Education says the organization of Ohio's 1,418 school districts "makes little sense" and reorganization is "inevitable."

Writing in the Ohio Education Association's publication," School Topics," R. M. Eyman said:

"Unless we in Ohio wake up, we are going to find ourselves 35 years behind the times in good district organization for high school education.

Eyman said Ohio's 1,418 school districts include 136 city districts, 71 exempted village districts and 1, 211 local school districts.

Sixty per cent of public school pupils are enrolled in the 136 city and 71 exempted village school districts, he asserted.

"x x x We have the ridiculous picture of boards of education being required for 1,211 local districts, plus 88 county districts, in order to manage and control schools which enroll only 40 per cent of the pupils and which employ only 40 per cent of the teachers," Eyman said.

"Stranger still," he added, "173 of these school districts fail to offer complete programs of instruction from grades one through 12.

Nineteen districts maintain no schools at all."

Eyman said it is impossible to operate both efficiently and economically a high school with an enrollment of less than 200 or 225 pupils. Yet, it is still being attempted in most sections of Ohio, he declared.

Costly And Inadequate

"Our 657 high schools with enrollments of less than 200 pupils are costly and yet fail to offer boys and girls adequate educational opportunities to equip them for the world in which they will live," Eyman declared.

Eyman said Ohio has made good progress in consolidating elementary schools. At one time there were over 10,000 one-room schools in Ohio. Today, there are only 198 one-room schools and 201 two-room buildings.

The state official warned, however, that Ohio faces an immediate problem of adding classrooms to accomodate the increased enrollment expected in elementary grades in the next few years

"By 1956 we will have as many pupils enrolled in the first eight grades as we now have in all 12 grades," said Eyman.

"We can never solve our problem by each of 1,211 local districts adding additional facilities, particularly for high school purposes, to all of the present buildings.

Provide Larger Schools

"In many instances we could use these buildings to full capacity for elementary schools. Then, by joining several districts together, we could provide one larger high school to replace several smaller high schools."

He would not eliminate local school districts but would provide for their re-organization by the county boards of education according to specified standards.

Begin Forming Rink for Ice Vogues Show

SKATES UPSIDE DOWN. Kay Farrell, Danish native who built a reputation as one of Europe's finest jugglers, manipulates a host of difficult objects in his act in the Ice Vogues of 1952 which opens a four-night engagement at the Coliseum Monday.

• • •

Workmen began placing 10 miles of freezer pipe on the Coliseum floor Thursday in preparation for the Ice Vogues of 1952 which opens a four-night engagement in Marion Monday.

The pipe will be covered with sawdust and sand, wet down with water, and the freezing solution will be pumped through the pipes to make the ice rink.

This year the rink will be moved nearer the center of the Coliseum to give persons in the south end seats a better view of the show. Ice Vogues have been presented in Marion the past two years.

This year's show features many new stars and several old ones in its cast of 75 skaters.

Among the new stars are Kay Farrelli, Danish juggler who skates on his hands and performs many other difficult tricks, and Bill Wallerborn, rubber-legged comedian who demonstrates amazing flexibility in a spine-snapping routine.

The Woman's Board of Marion City Hospital is sponsoring the sale of coupons which may be applied towards the purchase of tickets for the opening night performance. They may be secured from board members, at the National City Bank, or at the Gallaher Drug Store.

Ohio Fuel Gas Asks FPC For Rate Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. Thursday asked the Federal Power Commission for an increase in rates for 534,000 customers in 49 Ohio counties.

The application was filed shortly after a similar rate hike request was made of the commission by Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., operators of the "Big" and "Little Inch" pipelines. Ohio Fuel Gas gets about 40 per cent of its gas from Texas Eastern.

Ohio Fuel would have to file a similar application with the public Utilities Commission of Ohio and have it approved before the higher rates could be charged.

Ohio Fuel Gas said it is faced with the prospect of paying $8,800,000 more a year for gas if Texas Eastern's request for higher rates is approved.

W. N. Grinstead, Ohio Fuel president, said two other Ohio Fuel Gas suppliers, Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. and United Fuel Gas Co., put higher rates into effect earlier this year. These cost Ohio Fuel Gas about 2½ million dollars a year.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

CHICAGO

IN A LITTLE Spanish town the other day Gypsie Rose Lee opened a crackling cable urging her to rush home for a civil war inside the U. S.—a new civil war, a labor civil war—and her confederates in the AFL needed her talents.

But Gypsy was busy. So, the AFL turned to other stars—Joan Blondell and Beatrice Kay (grandniece of Samuel Gompers)—and they hit the road with musical comedy troupes out of Chisago, providing the latest and gayest AFL propaganda in an unnoticed labor war which may reach into every home and crossroads.

It is not inconceivable that before this civil war is over it will make the debate over steel seizure sound like a slow afternoon at the annual discussion of the National Association of Summertime Allergists. It is not inconceivable that millions of dollars will be spent, that war factories and apartment houses will not go up over their foundations for months, that television broadcasting will be dimmed; that city transit services and gas and electric supplies in some cities will be slashed, and that jurisdictional strikes will flare in our national communications system.

The AFL and CIO are at war. Some AFL papers actually are headlining news that they are "Mapping Civil War On CIO."

* * *

MOST DRAMATIC of these battles is the feud for leadership of the nation's 500,000 workers in the country's telephone and communications systems. Angered by the infant CIO Communications Workers drive to control switchboard girls and the huge plants which turn out the intricate telephonic equipment, the tough Old International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL) once again proved that the AFL is not a lumbering, aged behemoth incapable of moving with the times.

It reached into Chicago for a progressive labor leader in its TV equipment division, chap by name of Frank Darling, and made him National Director of Telephone Organization. Instead of hitting the road with a crew of broganned organizers, Darling hit on the newest of unionization stunts — which may yet revolutionize labor tactics.

He produced musical revues. He starred Beatrice Kay in the first and Joan Blondell in the second, now about to tour the midwest. No amateur musical operations these. They are full two - hour - and - twenty - minute shows, and, according to the critics, they rank with Bert Lahr's "Two on the Aisle" and "Top Banana."

* * *

THESE MUSICAL revues bid directly for the telephone workers under electric light titles of "Time and Charges" and "Guys and Dials." The Beatrice Kay show cost the AFL electricians some $18,000 a week for salaries and road tabs in St. Paul, Des Moines and Omaha—traveling until it was flooded out of existence.

In a few days the Joan Blondell musical will hit the circuit for cities in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa, and will wind up in Omaha, Nebraska. In each community, Darling moves into the biggest theatres, armories, and high school auditoriums he can find. In St. Paul, for example, he's booked into the Municipal Auditorium. Some can seat as many as 5,000.

A week before arrival, Darling's advance men send special invitations to the telephone operators urging them to bring their husbands and wives. There is also a counter-intelligence operation to offset understandable CIO efforts to kill the attendance by spreading reports that this is no show at all—just two acts and speeches.

* * *

DARLING TELLS me the show absolutely runs 140 minutes to his 15-minute union organizing speech at the end of the revue.

The theory here is fascinating. No union, no matter how big its treasury, can afford to hire enough organizers to reach personally the hundreds of thousands of prospective members, or those already enrolled in rival unions.

The cost of a good organizer has gone up too—and you can't hire an effective speaker for less than $150 and expenses these days. So it was Darling's idea to get the union to the mountain. Some telephone operators have driven 50 and 75 miles from small cross roads phone exchanges to get to the free Broadway musical — and, of course, listen to an organization talk.

This is a pilot operation. If it succeeds in smashing the CIO Communications Workers in the five-state area west and northwest of here, it will replace the leaflet and the speakers' stump across the land. This civil war will get hotter than jive, but that's another story, soon to be told.

STOWAWAYS MAKE IT TO GUAM. Looking over a piece of coral on Tumon Beach, Guam, are Maxine Allen (left), 23, of Tacoma, Wash, and Jeri McDaniel, 26, of Walnut Grove, Calif. The girls stowed away in a B-29 for the 6,000-mile flight from Sacramento, Calif. Questioned by immigration officials, they said they wanted to satisfy a life-long dream of living on a tropical island. The Air Force is holding two fliers who allegedly helped them hide in the big bomber.

Spring Flower Show Opens Saturday

Final details are being arranged for the spring flower show to be held Saturday and Sunday by units of the Marion Garden Club. The show will be staged in the Lincoln-Mercury salesroom on S Main St Saturday from 5 to 9 p.m. and on Sunday from 12:30 to 7:30 p.m. The time for Saturday afternoon was incorrectly stated in the article carried in The Star Thursday.

BUCYRUS—As a safety measure Bucyrus Rotarians will furnish and apply light-reflecting tape for every bicycle in Bucyrus, Millard Schieber, club president, announced today. Three horizontal strips of red tape will be placed on the rear fenders of the bicycles while strips of white tape will be placed on each side of the fork in front and on the center sections of the handlebars. More than 1,000 bicycles are expected to be equipped with the tape, Mr. Schieber said.

Off To Europe

By Inez Robb

EUROPE'S ANNUAL ORDEAL via American tourists (all that chewing gum, but what lovely dollars!) will be well begun by the time this essay sees print.

I'm snapping the lid on the old portable to be on Trans-World Airlines first "sky tourist" flight to London. And by the time you read this, I shall either be gaping at Big Ben or else swimming.

The Trans - Atlantic air lines, with the inauguration of sky tourist service on May 1, have made a trip to London, Paris, Rome and way points so inexpensive that a body can scarce afford to stay home and watch inflation eat up the patrimony.

The slash in aerial fares and the initiation of tourist flights means that an American harassed by steel strikes, campaign oratory and presidential didoes can get away from it all by plunking down $486 for a round trip to London a cut of $225 from the standard fare of $711.

Or, if the American wants to get even further away, he can purchase a round trip to Paris for $552, as against the standard fare of $748. And if the feller is really fit to be tied he can go all the way to Rome and back for $643, as compared with the standard fare of $868. The sky tourist srevice devised by TWA and its American and European conferees means the dawn of a new tourist era for Americans, who are all born with roving feet, and for Europeans, whose palms itch violently in the presence of a dollar.

* * *

IT IS ESTIMATED that as many as 600,000 American tourists will fly to Europe this summer, or almost double the 340,000 who winged their way to the Old World in 1951. It is just possible that by the termination of the tourist season, around the end of October, America may have to borrow some of her dollars back from the old countries.

The new tourist flights will not be quite so de luxe as the standard aerial journeys. There will be no free champagne, orchids or filet mignons.

The only items for free on tourists planes will be water tea and coffee. For an extra $4 each way, a traveler will be fed all he can eat by TWA and its confreres. But he is not forced to make that $4 outlay. Basket parties are welcome, and a thrifty man who wants to pack a box luncheon at home will be served free coffee to go with his own ham sandwiches and bananas.

The only tourist passengers who will get the regular de luxe treatment are babies under two. They still rate free baby foods, bibs and diapers.

Constellations, which TWA has long flown in trans-Atlantic service, have been converted to carry 60 tourist passengers as against 48 on standard European flights or 32 on the super de luxe flights, which include both bed (a berth) and board.

We tourist-class travelers are allowed 44 pounds of baggage as compared with 66 pounds permitted on standard flights. My luggage is all packed, and I am proud to say that my ample underwear, cosmetics, five pairs of shoes, one wool suit, two silk suits, six dresses, a fur cape, four hats and one nine-pound typewriter weigh in at only 43 pounds and 12 ounces. I am wearing a second wool suit and carrying a top coat. A woman ought to be able to go abroad and stay a year with that much trimmin's.

In these inflationary days when time means more than money, these new aerial tourist tickets mean that a working gal like myself can spend a little vacation in Europe without completely bankrupting her exchequer or straining the boss's patience by asking for extra time off for good behavior, if any.

Au revoir, folks, and don't take no wooden candidates.

* * *

This will be the last column by Inez Robb for a period of time during her travels in Europe. Her column will be resumed with an account of her trip as an average American tourist.

Heart of the Press

By Hal Boyle

NEWTON, IA.

FIFTY YEARS is a long time in in the life of a man.

In half a century a man can fall victim to fallen arches, dyspepsia, cynicism or delusions of grandeur. Over that period he begins to feel himself coming apart at the seams. So do many governments, because governments like men—are susceptible to interior ailments.

But after 50 years a good newspaper is just beginning to hit its stride.

A newspaper, like the community it reflects, is the sum of those who make it — and something more. It has a vitality of its own. There is no reason why good newspapers and good towns should fail to grow together endlessly, even though those who make them must grow old themselves and die.

The one thing a newspaper must have to endure is freedom. America has had a free press ever since its founding. That is the only reason why today it has the greatest press in the world.

It has been free for so long that most people in this country take their newspapers for granted. It would come as a dramatic shock to them if some day they awoke to find their newspaper could print only items that had been approved by a government censor.

Yet this is a daily fact to millions of people living in dictator-ridden countries. They are told exactly what the dictator wants them to know—and nothing more.

* * *

WHAT IS IT LIKE to live in such a country? It is always to live in doubt about what is happening, what is really going on, not only in your own country but in the rest of the world. Truth and propaganda become intertwined. Rumor and gossip ride the land. The final result is that no sensible man can afford to believe one thing he reads or hears. All he can ultimately be sure of is how the dictator spells his name.

In such countries newspapers that try to remain free are ruthlessly suppressed. A bought partisan press then voices, parrot fashion, any nonsense those in power decree it shall print. This daily barrage of misinformation may stir the older generation to rebellious disbelief; but it twists to its own sinister purpose younger minds growing up, minds that never had a chance to sift truth from falsity because they never were exposed to truth.

A free world press is the only real hope to world understanding, a bought press is the greatest barrier.

It is this liberty to tell the truth that makes American newspapermen, by and large, so fiercely proud of their craft. The mayor, the governor, or the President can't tell them: "You print this—don't print that." They write the news as it happens.

OFTEN THE BEST reporters are those who refuse to go to the big cities. They would rather make their careers in newspapers in the community of their choice. One of the greatest, William Allen White, won world fame in Emporia, Kas. It proved a better springboard for him than New York, Washington, or Chicago did for scores of his contemporaries.

The size of a city has never been an index to the quality of its newspapers—or its newspapermen. Some of the best have always been located in small or medium-sized communities.

A man likes to feel that what he has invested his life in was worthwhile—and will go on. Although the average reporter doesn't spend much time talking about it, that is one of the privileges of newspaper work—it has continuity of life. You may wear out, but the newspaper will go on, serving its community.

All surveys today show that American newspapers are of higher quality, are read more widely, than ever before. They probably will continue to be, so long as they remain free to be the voice of the people.

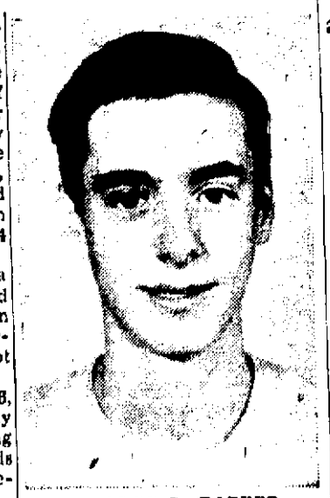
Green Camp School Boy Learns Printing Trade From Father



GEORGE D. BARBER

GREEN CAMP—"Like father, like son" is an age-old adage and it is truly exemplified in the life of George Dana Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dana G. Barber of near here. The father, now general purchasing agent of the Marion Power Shovel Company, was formerly a job printer and operated a business here known as the Typocraft Press from 1934 to 1944.

From 1938 through 1942 Dana Barber was postmaster here and operated the shop in conjunction with his postal duties. It was during this period that George got his first smell of printer's ink.

George was born Feb. 22, 1936, and as a youngster spent many hours in the print shop watching his father "stick" type and his mother feed a press as her household duties would permit.

When the family moved from Green Camp to a farm home about one and one-half miles from here, some of the equipment was moved and stored in a shed. It wasn't long though until the equipment was set up and in operation in a frame building that formerly had been a chicken brooder. Here young George learned the "case" and how to figure and cut stock, binding, and the other necessary requisites to turning out a job. Shortly thereafter he was soliciting work locally.

All his spare time is now taken up in the print shop. He has done quite a bit of "charity" work, in particular for the Baptist church of which he is a member.

Through his efforts he has supported himself, helped his family, and bought newer presses and type faces for the shop. At the present time he has two presses and several cases of type.

He is a member of the Amateur Printers Exchange. This organization publishes a monthly magazine with a circulation of 2,500 called the "Totem Pole." In a recent issue they used George's picture on the cover and a story of his life at home, at school and in his shop. This was the first of a series of articles the magazine plans to publish using a member's picture and life story.

After his graduation from high school in two years he plans to attend college and take a liberal arts course then return to Green Camp and operate the print shop in connection with an advertising service.

Delaware Staff Members Join Head in Quitting

Special to The Star

DELAWARE — The resignation of the superintendent and several other staff members of Jane M. Case Hospital in Delaware will be considered and acted upon at a meeting of the hospital board Monday night.

Disagreements with changes which the board had approved in administrative policy reportedly led to the resignations. The changes included a division of duties between a superintendent and a director of nurses.

Besides Supt. Ada Mitchell, resignations were received from Dr. Paul A. Jones of Zanesville, radiologist who visited the hospital once a week; Miss Elsie McKay, x-ray technician; Miss Olive Meckley, recording librarian; Mrs. Storilla Buchman, registered nurse and floor supervisor; Miss Martha Jones, registered nurse; Miss Irene Coon, nurse; Mrs. Helen Sell, receptionist and clerk; Mrs. Calista Guss, nurses aide, and Mrs. Elizabeth Owen, nurses aide.

Jungle Hazards Delay Explorer's Speech

FLINT, Mich. (UP) — Members of the Industrial Executives Club here planned to hear a speech by Kenneth Krippene, explorer.

One night before Krippene's scheduled talk, his agent announced that the explorer would be unavailable.

The agent explained that Krippene set off in the jungles of Peru in search of an emerald mine last fall and hadn't been heard from since.

WOLVES SHOT FROM PLANE

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Two U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service agents returned here with a report of having killed 110 wolves in three weeks of hunting in a light, two-man plane. Four other agents reported a kill of 61. Three airplanes have been used in the biggest scale campaign ever waged in th Far North against wolves which cause damage among the caribou herds.

TAG MISLEADING

ORD, Neb. (UP) — Archie Geweke thought the tag on the radiator of his new car indicated it had been filled with an anti-freeze solution. When he found his car frozen up, he read the tag. It was merely an explanation of a new-type radiator cap.

Spray Marion County Farms With Insecticide

Planes Wage War On Spittlebug

"Flying Farmers" Lay Bug-Killing Fog Over Hay

By GEORGE SCOTT

A full-fledged air war is being waged in Marion County.

Already planes have begun spraying the enemy from the skies.

This is war, all right, but your great-grandchildren won't read about it in history books of the future.

It's another battle in man's endless fight against the insect. And in some ways, this campaign against the bugs is as spectacular as the real McCoy.

Let's call the Marion County air war "Operation Spittlebug." That little creature is the reason you'll see airplanes zooming over farmers' fields during the next few weeks.

About this time of year the spittlebug hatches and immediately surrounds himself with a froth-like secretion and remains encased in it for four or five weeks. During that time he sucks the sap and stems and branches of the plant he has made his home.

* * *

MR. SPITTLEBUG in force can cut a hay crop in half and he can damage such plants as strawberries, flowers, and shrubs.

To beat him to the punch Marion County farmers are enlisting the aid of specially-equipped planes, piloted by experts in the trade of aerial cropping and pest control.

The pilots work in cooperation with Ohio State University and have the full authorization of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Marion County Agent Arthur H. Smith.

It's tricky work and sometimes dangerous. The planes zoom across a field about eight feet above the ground. Occasionally, they skim a field at four or five feet.

And, once in awhile, a plane will pick up some grass and cut leaves. It only takes a gust of wind or a slip at the controls to cause a crackup. That has occurred in some other counties.

* * *

THE PILOTS call themselves the "Flying Farmers." There are about 42 of them in Ohio and they have formed their own organization. To join or stay with the group the pilots have to comply with a set of rules which are strict for a group of people who are used to having them tough.

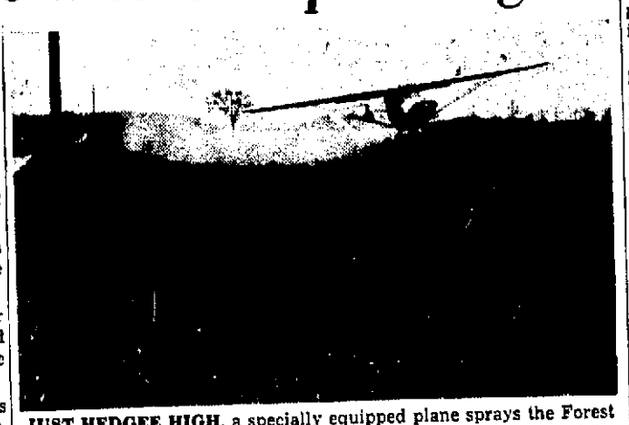
First Marion County farm to be sprayed this year by plane was that of Forest Loudenslager, located northeast of Big Island. Other pilots are expected to move into the county next week to put "Operation Spittlebug" in high gear.

Norman McGee, pilot who sprayed the Loudenslager farm, covered more than 197 acres from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m. Next week some 3,000 acres are expected to get the treatment, County Agent Smith said.

Many Marion County farmers had their fields sprayed last year and results were "very satisfactory," Smith said.

A farmer interested in having the spraying done can get an application at Smith's office on the west side of the Marion Postoffice.

One amazing part of spraying by plane is the small amount of chemical which must be used. On the average, two gallons will cover an acre. The service costs about $3 an acre. On larger farms the cost runs less than that per acre and on smaller farms a little more.



JUST HEDGEE HIGH, a specially equipped plane sprays the Forest Loudenslager farm, northeast of Big Island. The work is part of the fight against the menace of the spittlebug which attacks alfalfa and second year fields of red clover.

East Ohio's estimated new installations will total about 34,000.

whether Truman has any specific proposals to put before the meeting.

"I can't talk about what will happen tomorrow at all," Short said.

Murry "Hopeful"

In Pittsburgh, Murray told reporters he was hopeful the White House conference "will result in something conclusive." He said the union would stand firm on its demands for contract changes in line with the Wage Stabilization Board's recommendations.

The board recommended a "package increase" of 26 cents an hour for the steelworkers who now average slightly under $2 an hour. It also proposed that the industry agree to some form of a union shop—a requirement that all workers join the union.

The industry has insisted it could not pay a wage rise that large without a price increase of more than the $3 to $4.50 a ton the government has said at various times it was willing to allow. The industry also bitterly opposes a union shop.

Source Not Disclosed

Philip B. Perlman, arguing the government's case, told the Appeals Court he based that prediction on "pretty accurate" information, but failed to disclose its source.

The Appeals Court did not heed the industry request for a ban on wage boosts, leaving the government free to raise wages when it wants.

But Truman's appeal indicated no immediate wage increase is in prospect. He called for "further conferences seeking an immediate settlement of the issues between the union and the companies" to start in his office Saturday.

This aspect of his appeal had elements of the unusual. Rarely does a President ask the parties to a labor dispute to sit down with him. Usually he delegates that job to a government labor official.

There was no immediate reply to the President's invitations either from Murray or the six industry leaders—Benjamin Morrell, board chairman of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp., Pittsburgh, Pa.; Frank Purnell, board chairman of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., Youngstown, O.; Benjamin Fairless, president of United States Steel Corp., Pittsburgh, Pa.; Charles M. White, president of Republic Steel Corp., Cleveland, O.; A. B. Homer, president of Bethlehem Steel Corp., Bethlehem, Pa., and Clarence Randall, president of Inland Steel Co., Chicago, Ill.

The battle of the courts, meanwhile, moved to the highest court in the land. The government also was to file an appeal today with the Supreme Court asking reversal of Judge Pine's unprecedented ruling.

Perlman had to make his formal appeal before 3:30 p.m. (EST) or lose the protection of the stay granted by the Appeals Court. In other words, Judge Pine's anti-seizure ruling would automatically take effect at that hour if Perlman doesn't meet the deadline.

Acceptance Likely

The Supreme Court does not have to accept the case, but both government and industry attorneys were confident it will. There was better than even betting, too, that the nine justices would schedule arguments on the appeal in the next few days. The justices always meet privately on Saturdays to discuss pending business and schedule the court's work.

The heart of the steel controversy—the fight over a new work contract—has been all but lost sight of in the high excitement of the constitutional arguments over presidential seizure powers. Lawyers say no case involving constitutional powers of the President has attracted so much interest in the last 50 years, including President Roosevelt's plan to enlarge the Supreme Court.

But the contract dispute was still the key to settlement of the long fight over seizure. The union is demanding the full "package" increase recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board. That includes wage and fringe benefits totaling 26.1 cents. The industry says it would add $12 to the cost of steel. But the government has never offered a higher price boost than $4.50 a ton, and Price Director Ellis Arnall recently said that offer would not be repeated. He said the industry is entitled to only $3 a ton increase under the controls law.

May Have New Plan

Truman's appeal for "further conferences," however, indicates the government may have a new settlement plan.

The two sides have not negotiated, publicly at least, since April 15.

The polar regions have relatively dry air.

Attends Celebrations of Two Couples He Wed 50 Years Ago

A Marion minister, the Rev. E. M. Burroughs, recently attended the golden wedding celebrations of two Mercer County couples whom he had married at a double ceremony 50 years ago.

The couples, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Siler of Celina and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Webb of near Celina, were married April 6, 1902, in the Mt. Zion United Brethren Church by the Rev. Mr. Burroughs. They marked the 50th anniversary of the occasion by attending services together at the same church Sunday, April 6. The Rev. Mr. Burroughs, who is 84 made the trip to Mercer County to be present for the observance.

The Marion minister, now retired, filled many charges in the Sandusky Conference of the EUB Church during his 58 years in the ministry. He and his wife, now deceased, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary May 18, 1949. His home is at 176 Sharp St.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

"I don't mean anything of the kind," Dicky said with a note of impatience in his voice, which, I told myself rebukingly, was justified. "Dad will have to decide that after Harry has drawn up a few more dangling fish lines Terry may have accomplices helping him in his hunt for Bess and they have to make sure before they let her get out of sanctuary here. But both Harry and Dad think Terry was playing a lone hand as far as Bess was concerned, using people where he found them, but confiding in no one. However, Bess must not leave here until they're sure on that point."

"I can see that," I told him, "and I'm sorry I asked such a foolish question."

"I'll take your forgiveness under advisement," he quipped and I wrinkled my nose at him.

"Then I'll ask another one," I said. "Will Harry be coming back here?"

"Not to stay," he said. "He has to stick closely to the hospital. But he can come over here occasionally to see Lil and Marion. And the time of his first visit—Dad said to tell you this—will be whenever you decide that Lillian is in a mood to listen to him when he sounds off about Marion."

"That's quite an order," I said, "for I think Lillian has gone underground as far as talking about Marion's problem is concerned. But I'll watch her carefully and let you know."

"Good girl!" he commended. "But here's another thing. Dad doesn't want to tell Harry about Marion. He's going to shunt that job off on you, and he wants Harry to know as soon as possible. That means you'll have to meet him somewhere here without Lil's knowing it, and he must not see her within several hours of his meeting with you. Now, how are we going to manage that, Mrs. Fix-it?"

I flushed at the gibing nickname which so annoys me, but Dicky's voice was tender and I put aside my irritation, and turned my attention to the problem he had given me.

"I don't think that will be too hard," I said. "Of course, your studio isthe only place for the meeting, but we can't use the excuse we did before—of my helping you—and you will have to stay in our suite while I see Harry. I'll make some excuse about doing some necessary shopping for the penthouse occupants. If you stay at home, she won't think anything about my suspicious angle."

"Suppose she wants to go along with you," he suggested.

"She won't, I'm sure," I told him. "But if she should offer to go, I'll tell her she must stay here to deal with a possible message from Carlotta Carroll. But there won't be any, for I'll tell Katharine that if Carlotta calls Marion, as I asked her to do, Marion will not call her mother; she will call me at the studio."

"That means," she said slowly, "that you mean to take Marion into your confidence about Harry."

"I'll have to," I said defensively. "I have no choice about that."

"No, I suppose you haven't," he said. "But, have you thought of this angle?"

He stopped for a second as if considering how to frame his next words.

"Harry may not approve of your confiding things to Marion which must be kept from her mother," he said.

Statement for the Record

As your County Engineer for the past 12 years, I wish to report to the people of Marion County some of the accomplishments of my administration.

In spite of material shortages and other problems confronting this department during World War II and the post war period, we have . . .

"WALT" JOHNSON

Erected a new County Garage and yard facilities, a combination which greatly increased the efficiency of the Road Department. By careful purchasing, all road equipment is modern and in good condition.

Re-topped over 200 miles of blacktop roads and converted more than 90 miles of stone roads to blacktop, 20 miles of which were completely reconstructed, either under Federal Aid or by our own forces.

Your County roads are in better condition today than at any time in county history.

Rebuilt or reconstructed 75 bridges on County and Township roads, with painting of all bridges scheduled to be completed in 1952.

Constructed 37 drainage ditches petitioned by property owners.

These projects were completed despite the additional work load arising from cooperation with the federal government in road problems created in the construction of the Scioto Ordnance Plant, Marion Engineer Depot and Delaware Dam Reservoir.

On the administrative side, technical positions in the department were filled with Registered Professsional Engineers with qualified experience. All other personnel have been selected for ability to fill their specific position. The faithfulness to duty of all of my employes is a source of pride to me.

Our pledges of honesty and efficiency, made 12 years ago, have been kept. No employe has ever been asked to contribute any funds to insure job security.

We have been on friendly terms and have cooperated fully with the County Commissioners and the 15 boards of Township Trustees, and with fairness to all regardless of party.

In view of the above record, I am very much interested in whom you select as the Republican candidate for County Engineer and I urge all my friends to support Reed Ours as my successor.

I am confident he will continue the same policies.

WALTER W. JOHNSON,
Marion County Engineer

Honduran Night Observed By Church Society

Honduran Night was observed when the Woman's Missionary Circle of First Evangelical and Reformed Church held a guest night meeting Wednesday night at the church.

Highlighting the program was a talk by Miss Sopfia Kalerguis, a native of Honduras who was graduated from the Evangelical and Reformed Normal Institute in San Pedro Sula, Honduras, with the class of 1950. She now is living in Bucyrus, coming to this area to live with relatives at the death of her parents two years ago. She is working and is furthering her education in English at the Bucyrus High School.

As guest speaker, Miss Kalerguis gave an account of missionary work from the point of view of a Honduran who received practically all her training in the mission schools She was introduced by Mrs. G. G. Nuetzel, program chairman.

Following the talk by Miss Kalerguis, Mrs. Nuetzel conducted a question and answer perior on the subject of Honduras

Also for the program, Mrs. J. Paul Goebel gave a short talk on missionary work done in Honduras. She is particularly interested in this because her father Dr. C. W. Locher, was one of the founders of the mission school in Honduras.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Oscar Retterer, a piano solo was presented by Mrs. Goebel, and group singing followed the reading of a poem, "What Are Miracles?", by Mrs. Retterer.

A report of a regional meeting held April 24 at Kenton was given by Mrs. Anna Zimmerman, and prayer by Rev. Goebel closed the meeting. Twenty members and 10 guests were present. Serving as hostesses for the day were members of the social committee, Mrs. Agnes Wohlschlag, Mrs. Luella Parratt and Mrs. Mae Bastian.

Virus X Said To Include 30 New Diseases

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

BOSTON (AP) — The mysterious Virus X is really 30 new diseases.

The doctors are not yet acquainted with most of them and so they call these troubles X.

How the wonder-drug antibiotics brought this to pass was described to the Society of American Bacteriologists Thursday, in a symposium on viruses.

When antibiotics, such as penicillin, streptomycin, aureomycin and all the others, save our lives, or serious illness, they kill a lot of our most dangerous germ enemies (that leaves our bodies open to attack from a less dangerous but large host of viruses. Because of the anti-biotics, the bacteriologists have been discovering them in rapid succession.

We always had them, but they were lumped under vague names like congestion, catarrh, summer flu and a number of bowel troubles. Now that they are out in the open they number at least 30.

The bacteriologists are worried about the antibotics all of us are getting in our daily food. We get tiny bits from milk, due to giving them for cattle diseases. Also from pork because antibiotics are given to make pigs grow faster. From chickens and eggs for the same reason. Parenthetically the Swiss cheese makers are tearing their hair because these antibiotics in milk interfere with making their holes.

The Bacteriologists fear that these tiny quantities will sensitize us so that some cannot take antibiotics when ill. They also reported today that the antibiotics in milk kill some germs in our bodies which make vitamins for us.

Richwood Club Discusses Old Glass

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD—The Carpe Diem Club met at the home of Mrs. Edgar Hastings April 24. The president, Mrs. Howard Temple opened the meeting with the reading of the Club Woman's Creed.

During a review of "Arts and the Romance of Old Glass," Mrs. Joe Howe explained many fine points about the molding of old glass, naming many distinguished features, pointing out these characteristics in several pieces various members had brought to the meeting.

Mrs. Hastings talked on "Flanders Lace" and displayed several exhibits made by members of the Club. Mrs. Hastings, turning from lace to 1952 fashions, gave a report on the latest dress fashions.

"Fan Flair," by Mrs. Giles McDaniel, was an unusual review. She showed examples of Japanese fans and how they are manipulated.

The club members held a close examination of the many pieces of glassware, samples of dress materials, heirloom laces and fans, after which the meeting was adjourned.

THE WORKS OF CHRIST

THE CANAANITE'S DAUGHTER HEALED

Then Jesus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon And, behold, a woman of Canaan came out of the same coasts, and cried unto him, saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou son of David, my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil

But he answered her not a word And his disciples came and besought him, saying, Send her away, for she cried after us But he answered and said, I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel

Then came she and worshipped him, saying, Lord, help me But he answered and said, It is not meet to take the children's bread, and cast it to the dogs And she said, Truth, Lord yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their masters' table

Then Jesus answered and said unto her O woman great is thy faith be it unto thee even as thou wilt And her daughter was made whole from that very hour at the same location, and in the same spirit of friendly cooperation that led to the founding of this bank on May 1st, 1865.

THE MARION COMMUNITY NEEDED BANKING SERVICE and bank safety. Timothy Fahey, grocer, became Timothy Fahey, banker, and the steady growth of THE FAHEY BANKING COMPANY through the years has proved the wisdom of his choice.

Our 87th birthday, like all those that preceded it, has been a memorable day—a day on which to review the past with satisfaction and look to the future with confidence.

We welcome this occasion to thank our many good friends for their continued good will and patronage. You can be sure that we'll continue to serve you, and your community, to the best of our ability.

Two Special Issues Up For Vote Tuesday

Only two districts of Marion County—Grand Prairie Township and Caledonia Local School District—will vote on special issues in the primary election Tuesday.

The Grand Prairie special ballot asks the voter if he desires a zoning plan ratified by the Grand Prairie Township trustees If approved by a majority affirmative vote, the plan would prohibit from the township "junk yards for commercial or storage purposes, commercial or public race tracks of any nature, pool rooms, public dance halls, bar or tap rooms, cocktail lounges, night clubs, and disorderly establishments of a distasteful nature"

A proposed $62,000 bond issue to complete the construction of an elementary school building in the Caledonia School District will be put to the voters of that district Tuesday. Beside completing construction, the bond issue is asked for an auditorium, gymnasium, furniture, playground equipment, and acquisition of real estate and easements

The Caledonia ballot states a levy of taxes outside the ten mill limitation would be made to pay the principal and interest of the bonds over a period of 20 years The ballot states the levy would average 13 4 cents for each $100 of valuation of property.

BIRTH REPORTED

GALION — Announcement is made here of the birth of a daughter Wednesday at Mansfield General Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Starkey of Mansfield. The mother is the former Harriett Ness, daughter of Mrs. Glenn Ness of Galion.

Today's Birthday

BRIAN AHERNE, born May 2, 1902, at King's Norton, Worcestershire, England. Noted actor playing opposite Katharine Cornell in "The Constant Wife" in their 21st year as a stage team, he made his first New York appearance with her in 1931 in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." Aherne wanted to be an architect and studied for it, but juvenile success on the stage offset that ambition. He made his debut at 8.

100 Present For Regional Meeting Of Garden Clubs

MEMBERS of the Town and Country, House and Garden and Sun and Shade Units of the Marion Garden Club were hostesses for a meeting of clubs of the Mansfield Region of the Garden Club of Ohio, Wednesday. Luncheon for more than 100 local and visiting members was at Hotel Harding and the afternoon program and tea was in the Youth room of the First Presbyterian Church.

Speaker for the program was Mrs. Winifred Walker of Toledo. Music was by Mrs. Timothy Wyant, vocalist, and Miss Sally Schneider, pianist.

Luncheon was in the dining room where the tables were decorated in a spring theme of yellow, pink and white flowers. Varied arrangements of narcissi, tulips, hawthorne, japonica and other early garden bloom fashioned the bouquets from which streamers in these colors extended to carry out a Maypole theme.

The welcome was extended by Mrs. Andrew E. Knapp, president of the Town and Country Unit of the Marion Garden Club, and greetings were by Mrs. Paul McConnell of Mansfield, regional vice president.

Guests included Mrs. McConnell, Mrs. Clarence Huber of Rocky River, president of the Garden Club of Ohio, Mrs. Theodore Uehling of Mansfield, state vice president and Mrs. Robert T. Mehl of Ashland, member of the state advisory board and a past state president.

For the afternoon program Mrs. Walker took her audience on a tour of Bermuda. She showed colored moving pictures taken on her trip to Bermuda and showed interesting highlights of her stay on the Isinad. The films were captioned "Bermuda Beckons."

Mrs. Wyant, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John F. Lacey, sang two groups. They included "Thou Art So Like a Flower," Schumann, "Were My Songs With Wings Provided," Hahn, "Oh, to be in England," Kerby, "Top of the Morning," Manna Zucca and "May Day Carol," Deems Taylor. Miss Schneider's numbers were, "Romance," Sibelius and "Des Abens," Schumann.

Presiding at the table for the tea were Mrs. B. R. Prichard of Marion and Mrs. McConnell. Covered with a lace cloth the table was centered with an arrangement of spring flowers and lighted with white tapers in triple silver candelabra.

Announcement was made of a Garden Club pilgrimage the fourth Wednesday in June, the Central Atlantic Regional meeting to be held in Cleveland in October and a flower show school at Columbus May 12, 13 and 14.

A feature of the day was the flower exhibit in the Presidential Suite. Arranged in three classes there were many original and colorful exhibits for May Day luncheon tables, gift baskets and May Day baskets. Green ribbons were awarded each entry. On the mezzanine was an interesting display of glass arranged by the Marion Glass Factory.

Miss Maud Gorham was general chairman for the one-day meeting. Mrs. B. R. Prichard was co-chairman. Committees were: program, Mrs. William Hutchman, Mrs. Lewis Ashworth; registration, Mrs. Fillmore Young, Mrs. Homer R. Waddell; flower exhibit, Mrs. Charles Oborn, Mrs. C. J. Altmaier; publicity, Mrs. Howard Swink, Mrs. Ben T. Wiant; entertainment, Mrs. Jay H. Maish, Mrs. E. J. Kinter; table decorations, Mrs. Richard Bessom, Mrs. Clare E. Williams; finance, Mrs. Hoover Brown, Mrs. J. F. Neidhart. Hostesses were presidents and vice presidents of the hostess clubs. The musical program was arranged by Mrs. John F. Lacey.

SUFFERS HEART ATTACK

UPPER SANDUSKY—Dr. Kenneth Davis, local dentist, suffered a severe heart attack at his office Wednesday about 2 p.m. He was rushed to the Wyandot Memorial Hospital in the Bringman & Co. ambulance.

Marion Garden Center Notes

FORSYTHIAS, HONEYSUCKLES

Forsythias come from the Orient and are commonly grown everywhere now, but one species must be mentioned for two reasons. Forsythias ovata is the earliest of all Forsythias to bloom and it is the hardiest. It blooms a week to 10 days in advance of the other Forsythias and proves satisfactory in northern gardens where the flower buds of the more popular species are frequently killed by severe winters.

Though the Bush Honeysuckles mostly possess no conspicious beauty of foliage or flower, they are, nevertheless, most valuable and enjoyable shrubs for borders and screens in the small home landscape. They are the smoothly blending diffuse type of shrubs that form ideal, restful backgrounds and enclosures. Their flower effect is pleasing rather than conspicious, and in most kinds the juicy red berries furnish a welcome decorative note in midsummer. These honeysuckles are good natured shrubs, succeeding well in open situations and in not too heavy overhead shade. They are not particular as to soil.

Tales of Tomorrow

"What happens when the parents of a 12-year-old boy discover that their son is a 'mutant,' one of a generation which has a super-intellect? What happens when the son finishes the last volume in a series of books and leaves home to work for this growing superintellectual race?"

Well, sir, I could no more withstand this challenge—which was contained in a press release from ABC-TV's "Tales of Tomorrow"—than the next man. As a matter of fact, I strongly suspect my own son, age five, of being a mutant, a super-intellect who, left untended for five minutes, can wreak more havoc than the atom bomb.

* * *

"TALES OF TOMORROW" is science fiction, a branch of literature for which I have no sympathy. I tuned in. The boy, a little monstrosity played by Terry Greene, was reading books written in characters which meant nothing to his mother (played by that ordinary intellect Claire Luce). Naturally, this rattled his mother. She kept grasping his arm, staring into his eyes and asking him how he felt, a congenital disease with mothers of even unintellectual children. He'd stare back at her with the undisguised superiority of a 12-year-old and say "Oh, mother"—an expression and an attitude not confined to super-intellects. He'd got in with some other unpleasant super-intellects, all roughly 12, and eventually he went off with them to solve the problems of the universe, leaving Miss Luce bereft, the curtains in his empty room blowing slightly to mark the spot where he escaped.

This, as I say, is science fiction, a tributary in the river of escapism which has prospered mightily in the last decade. One nice thing about "Tales of Tomorrow" is that its characters are not everlastingly belting all over space, blasting into Mars or out of Jupiter. Occasionally, they have their feet on the ground of Earth. (You'd better get used to spelling it because it will soon be part of the address on letters—John Doe, 856 Main Street, Smithtown, N. J., USA, Earth). As a man who suffers acutely from Space Cadet poisoning, this is a welcome relief.

* * *

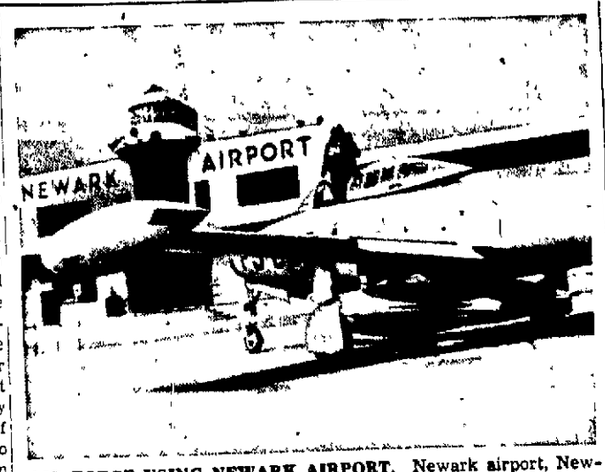
"THE NEXT MAN who reports a flying saucer will be broken by me personally," shouted Gene Raymond on the last "Tales of Tomorrow" I saw. He was echoing my sentiments exactly. (I broke the last man who reported a flying saucer over my knee and ate him). Mr. Raymond, who was impersonating a Colonel in the Air Forces, didn't follow through. The next flying saucer was not only reported, it actually landed at his air base. Colonel Raymond's first act was to close the field and send a copy of a message taken from the saucer's nose to the cryptographers at the Pentagon.

The cryptographers definitely established that the message was in Martian "and believe me those boys know their business." I did not know the Pentagon's cryptographers could break the Martian's code and I'm happy to hear they're so clever down there. Out of this flying saucer they brought a creature who—the hospital established definitely—was Martian. I don't know how you decide these things with such definiteness.

* * *

THE REAL Martians, the ones who ran the ship, were microbes with brains who proceeded to strike down all the personnel of the air base except Colonel Raymond who ordered his own destruction and theirs by atom bomb. If this makes no sense to you, then science fiction isn't for you. It isn't, frankly, for me either. All I can say for this particular operation was that I'm helpless with admiration for Gene Raymond who acted out this malarkey with great poise—almost as if he understood what he was doing.

Just after the atom bomb was dropped — the famous mushroom shaped cloud rising slowly to the heavens—the announcer broke in to declare briskly: "And now let's come back to the world of today and see what's puzzling people now. What shall we get mother for Mother's Day?"



AIR FORCE USING NEWARK AIRPORT. Newark airport, Newark, N. J., is again in use—by the U. S. Air Force for limited service—after being closed since Feb. 11 as a result of a series of tragic transport plane crashes. Pilot of first plane to land, Lt. James Yelton, is shown climbing out of his Thunderjet, one of a flight of 14 which landed there.

Ashley Council To Move To New Quarters

Special to The Star

ASHLEY — Ashley Village Council will move their office to the Fire Department rooms, just south of the present quarters. The reason for the change is that the foundation of the old brick building is giving away and the floor is weak. The fire department bulding was erected about 80 years ago by Coleman Roosevelt and was first used as a store room by his son, George Roosevelt. Later, the wing to the north, now to be used as the mayor's office and Council room, was built. The entire structure is of brick.

Veterans Take Over Spotlight In Major League Action

Trout, Dobson, Hudson In Impressive Chores

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dizzy Trout, Joe Dobson and Sid Hudson, like old wine, seem to improve with age. The gaffers are teaching the new dogs some old tricks.

Trout turned in a spectacular relief chore Thursday night at Yankee Stadium to stifle a New York Yankee rally. Rescuing Art Houtteman in the ninth with men on first and third and nobody out, the 36-year-old Trout preserved a 5-4 Detroit victory.

Dobson, well past his 35th birthday, silenced the Philadelphia A's without a hit for 7⅓ innings while pitching the Chicago White Sox to a 3-0 triumph.

Hudson, Washington's 34-year-old veteran, edged Cleveland's Bob Lemon, 2-1, in an exciting 13-inning battle at Griffith Stadium.

The kids had their fun, too. Those rollicking St. Louis Browns, after breaking even with the world champs in New York, bowled over the Boston Red Sox rookies, 6-1. Thus did Rogers Hornsby's upstarts, cellar tenants in '51, move within one game of the first place Red Sox.

Cubs Roll On

The Chicago Cubs, somewhat more mature than the Brownies, continued to play like the spring sensations of the National as they bumped Brooklyn, 7-2. It took a trick of mathematics to keep the Cubs out of first place. Chicago, last in 1951, actually had a half game edge in the won-and-lost standings but Brooklyn held a 13-point percentage edge, .727 to .714.

Jim Hearn found the revamped Pittsburgh Pirates just as accommodating as his "cousins" of old as he pitched the New York Giants to a 13-5 romp. That made his lifetime count 14-2 over the Bucs.

Robin Roberts, the Phillies' youthful ace, racked up win No. 3 with home run help from Nippy Jones and Connie Ryan as he downed St. Louis, 6-3 with an eight-hitter.

Getting back to Yankee Stadium where 21,127 turned out for the first night game of the season. Houtteman, a one-hit winner in his last out, suddenly lost his stuff in the ninth when three straight singles narrowed the gap to 5-4 with nobody out.

Trout strode in with Bob Cerv on third and pinch runner Artie Wilson on first. Down went the Yanks, one-two-three. When Phil Rizzuto grounded to Shortstop Johnny Lipon, Cerv was cut down at the plate. Johnny Hopp fanned and Mickey Mantle ended the game by grounding to first.

Vic Wertz was the big gun in the Tiger attack. Despite his sickly .101 he bashed successive two-run homers off Johnny Sain in the fourth and fifth innings to set up the Tiger triumph.

Dobson had a no-hitter going with one out in the eighth. Then rookie Skeeter Kell beat out a slow roller that Shortstop Chico Carrasquel bobbled momentarily. The official scorer ruled it a hit on the theory that Kell would have beaten the throw to first.

Duane Pillette threw a five-hitter against the Red Sox and contributed a two-run double in the fifth.

Big Hank Sauer of the Cubs put the skids under Dodger Ralph Branca with a three-run double in the first inning.

Belkas Wins Main Bout From Steele

Chris Belkas came back to take two straight falls after dropping the first to Tom Steele in the main event of the wrestling card Thursday night at the Armory.

Steele took the first fall after 10 minutes with a hammerlock but Belkas took the next two in four and nine minutes.

Joe Wolfe took two straight falls to beat Don Sparrow in the opener. Sparrow lost the first fall on a disqualification.

Terry Majors won a girls' match over Ida May. Majors won the first fall in 12 minutes but May came back to take the second in four minutes. Majors copped the winning fall after nine minutes.

OSU Coaches Set Annual Grid Clinic

500 Prep School Mentors Expected At Two-Day Session

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O.(AP)— Ohio's high school grid coaches, generally considered the best in the scholastic business, get a chance next week end to see how it's done in the big time.

Ohio State University's coaching staff, aided by several outstanding visiting mentors, will offer its 21st annual football clinic Friday and Saturday, May 9 and 10. The climax is the clinic game, in which Coach Woody Hayes' Buckeye squad will put on a full scale contest at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

More than 500 of the Buckeye high school coaches are slated to attend, one of the big drawing cards being the fact Ohio State has adopted the split "T" as part of its 1952 offense.

On that angle, Hayes said: "Since we are attempting to integrate the split "T" attack with our own convention "T" formation, we plan to discuss the problems we have run into and show the manner in which we've tried to integrate these offenses."

Open to Public

The general public may attend the clinic game at 50 cents per ticket, with no reserved seats. Ducats are now on sale at the university.

Rusty Russell, Southern Methodist's coach who befuddled the Bucks the last two years with a great passing attack, will stress the way he ties up downfield blocking with his aerial maneuvers, and how he gets shallow second choice receivers open when deep receivers are covered.

Hayes will outline several offenses met in Big Ten play last year, and how the Bucks handled 'em. Also on the program are Ray Hoyman of Steubenville, the 1951 high school coach of the year; Chuck Riffle of Warren, who will coach the northern all-stars in the North-South high school game at Akron this summer, and George Vlerebome of Zanesville, who will be in charge of the southern all-stars.

Ed Weaver, director of ticket sales, set up his distribution plan Thursday for the 1952 season. The Bucks drew 637,484 fans to lead the nation last season after selling 49,105 season books.

GIFT SILVER COLLIDES WITH FILLY. With Jockey Warren Perez up, Gift Silver, a Kentucky Derby candidate, rams riderless filly, Essie M., at Churchill Downs at Louisville, Ky. Gift Silver, the Odie Newell entry from Ottumwa, Iowa, had swung wide to the rail from the starting gate preparatory to a workout. The exercise boy aboard the filly leaped clear when he saw the collision coming. Neither horse was hurt, nor was Perez.

Injuries Bring Change In Cleveland Lineup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of injuries, Cleveland Manager Al Lopez has been able to use the combination of Indians he picked at the start of the season in only six of 15 games.

And those games were the first six. Since that the Tribe had one or more of the regulars sidelined by injuries at every game. The latest casualty was Dale Mitchell who hurt his left shoulder Thursday night as the Tribe dropped a 2-1 heartbreaker to the Washington Senators.

Then there has been Jim Hegan, who has missed three games because of a sore elbow and now a sprained ankle; Larry Doby, who missed seven games due to a pulled leg muscle; and Bob Avila, sidelined briefly by a bruised leg.

Lesser aches and pains were Luke Easter's slight leg injury, George Stirnweiss' tangle with pneumonia, Quincy Troupe's removed tonsils and Pete Reiser's strained shoulder.

The loss Thursday came on a double and a single after 13 innings and three hours and 10 minutes.

Gil Coan doubled to center and two batters later, Frank Campos drove him home with a single. That ended a pitching battle in which Cleveland's Bob Lemon gave up 10 hits and Washington's Sid Hudson allowed 12.

Lemon pitched a three-hit shutout until the eighth when Washington tied the score on a single by Mickey Grasso and a double by Eddie Yost.

Mitchell accounted for the Tribe's only run in the first when he singled in Al Rosen who had singled and moved to second on a walk to Larry Doby.

Outfielder Harry Simpson tripled twice, but was left there both times. Rosen hit three singles.

Reds Aided In 7-6 Win By Boston Boners

Wehmeier Wins Third But Needs Help From Frank Smith

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds held their own in the standings Thursday night, but not through too great efforts of their own.

In squeezing out a 7 to 6 win over Boston's Braves, the Rhinelanders got help — some of it sorely needed—from two muffed plays and a wild pitch.

Herman Wehmeier, who got credit for the triumph, was constantly in trouble, even though his teammates gave him a cushion of one, and three runs. Wehmeier had to have relief from Frank Smith in the ninth.

Taking the lead 1 to 0 in the first, Wehmeier gave Sid Gordon a good one in the fourth and he parked it in short center for a single. Walker Cooper then doubled him home, and after Ed Matthews flied out, Bob Thorpe tripled to center scoring him, to erase that edge.

The Reds came back, however, in their half, Hank Edwards scoring on Dick Sisler's single.

Bad Luck Starts

Boston's hard luck started then. Sam Jethroe dropped Andy Seminick's fly and then, with a man on first and second, Roy McMillan grounded sharply to Earl Torgeson who matched Jethroe's butterfingers, loading up the sacks. Wehmeier's fly scored Sisler.

After holding his own in the next frame, the Reds added to the lead by scoring two more in the fifth on Bobby Adams' single, Ted Kluszewski's single and Sisler's double.

Wehmeier got into real trouble in the sixth, tossing up a home-run ball for Gordon, and following with singles to Cooper and Matthews. Then McMillan booted Thorpe's grounder, scoring Cooper. George Crowe, while hitting into a double play, scored Matthews, tieing up the game.

More Boston help came in the seventh. After one out, Kluszewski doubled to left, and Vern Bickford, the Braves' starter, then walked Edwards. Sister followed with a single, scoring big Ted and leaving Edwards on third. Lew Burdette came on for the Braves, and gave the game to the Reds. Facing his first man, he uncorked a wild pitch, scoring Edwards, with what proved to be the margin.

Manager Luke Sewell is sending Kenny Raffensberger to work for the Reds tonight, with a 3-0 record. Opposing him will be Jim Wilson, who has a 0-2 chart.

Meet Bexley Today

Harding Whips Tygers, 5-3; Ready For Tourney

After winning a 5-3 game from Mansfield at Lincoln Park Thursday, the Harding nine will take on Bexley in their first tournament game this afternoon.

In avenging an earlier Mansfield loss, the Prexies pounded out 13 hits to help George Compton pitch Harding to its first victory of the season.

Harding tallied two in the second inning on a double by Compton, a hit batsman, and singles by John Chafin and Jack Niles. The last three Harding runs came in the third on a catcher's interference, singles by Joe Thomas and Chafin and a double by Jim Larsen.

Mansfield scored one in the sixth and two in the seventh. Both teams played errorless ball. Compton fanned 11 batters in the seven innings and allowed only two walks.

Harding plays Bexley at Lincoln Park this afternoon. Bexley edged out Columbus West in their first tournament game. Jim Edington will pitch for Harding.

Expect Record Performances at Harding Relays

Eight Teams Set For Local Event Today

The top track event of the year will be held tonight at Harding Stadium when eight schools with 130 athletes move in for the third annual Harding Night Relays.

"Every Marion Night Relay record has a good chance of being broken," Harding Track Coach Ken Somerlot said today. He added that at least seven stadium records could easily be bettered.

Schools set for tonight's meet include Harding, Bexley, Findlay, Fostoria, Newark, Tiffin Columbian, Upper Arlington and Worthington. Somerlot's Harding crew will be defending the crown won last year.

Sterling Geesman of Ohio Wesleyan University will serve as official starter. Preliminaries in the running events will get under way at 4:15 with field events set to go at 6. Finals will be held at 7:15. Preliminary heats will be opened with the 120-yard high hurdles to be followed by the 100-yard dash, the 180-yard low hurdles and the 220-yard dash.

Tops Program

The distance events are expected to be the best run at the stadium in several years as Harding's two top aces, John Ashworth and Ted Price, meet all comers. Ashworth already has turned in a 4:38.5 this year while Price has hit 4:45 and both have been improving. Worthington will throw two of the state's top milers into the event in Jerry Cox, who has posted a 4.41 and Jack Blackburn, who has run the mile in 4.45. The same four will meet in the 880-yard run. Ashworth has posted a 2:03.8 for his best 880 mark thus far while Cox has reached a 2:04. Blackburn carries a 2:07 mark into the race while Price will be shooting to improve his 2:08.5.

All eyes will be on Harding's Paul Geissler in the dashes. The lanky Prexy runner overshadowed the field earlier this week at a triangular meet at Findlay. He carries a 10.15 mark into the 100-yard dash while John Garnes of Findlay, Jack Garver of Marion and Howard Russell of Upper Arlington all go in with 10.5's. The Harding ace also carries a mark of 20.5 into the low hurdles. Dave Caldwell of Findlay and Jim Tucker of Fostoria with 21.1 probably will be his toughest foes. In the 220, Geissler holds the best mark with a 22.3. Jack Garver's 23 flat, and Tom Johnson of Fostoria with a 23.9 are next in line.

Field Threats

Dick Tway is the local's top threat in the 440. The Harding speedster already has posted a 53.6. Ken Adams of Worthington with a 53.9 and Harding's Tom Morton with a 54.3 are the most dangerous threats. Jim Russell, Jack Boxwell, Gene Gamble and Jack Craft will carry the load for Somerlot's charges in the field events.

A special Marion County 880 relay race, for the 11 schools in the county system, and a special junior high 880 relay for Marion's three junior high school track squads, will be held

Big Ten Baseballers Face Busy Week End

Wisconsin is tied with Minnesota for a third place with 2-1 and Iowa is bunched with Indiana, Ohio State, Illinois and Michigan State with 1-2 records. Purdue is last with 0-3.

BIDS FOR BIG TIME

NEW YORK (AP) — Young Vinnie Martinez, a rousing socker from Paterson, N. J., makes his bid for the big time tonight in a televised 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena against once-tough Tony Pellone of New York's Greenwich Village. The 9 p.m. (EST) bout will be carried on television (NBC) and radio (ABC).

Derby Fever Increases As Time Nears

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Pre-Derby excitement reached fever pitch today with 10 three-year-olds already enrolled in the $100,000 added mile and one-quarter run for the roses and six more expected before the entry box closes.

The ten, headed by A. W. Abbott's talented Blue Man of Rye, N.Y., were entered Thursday over a 10-hour period for Saturday's turf only on the day before the race.

In addition to Blue Man, the group included the New York-combine of Jack Amiel's Count Flame and Master Fiddle from the Myhelyn stable; Bayard Sharp's Delaware-owned Hannibal; Sam Wilson Jr.'s Gushing Oil, hope of Texas; Sub Fleet of Charles T Fisher's Dixiana farm.

The lightly regarded entries numbered Happy Go Lucky, owned and trained by H. G. Bockman, a former optometrist; Freeman Keyes' Smoke Screen of Chicago; Shag Tails from the barns of Milton Shagrin of Cleveland and W. C. Morris' Brown Rambler.

Before the entry box closes on the 78th Derby around 10 a.m. (EST), Churchill Downs officials fully expect to hear from Calumet's ground-eating Hill Gail, the outstanding favorite; Mrs. Ethel DuPont Scott's Pintor; Mrs. Gordon Guiberson's Arroz; C. V. Whitney's stretch running Cold Command and a couple of outsiders — Eternal Moon and Swoop, which arrived from New York only Thursday.

If all 16 face starter Ruby White at 4:30 p.m., the race will have a gross value of $124,350 with the owner of the winner receiving a net of $96,300. For each withdrawal subtract the starting fee of $1,000.

Broadcast Expense Hits New High

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The first coast-to-coast telecast of the Kentucky Derby Saturday will be the most expensive half-hour show in television's brief history, running well into six figures.

The half-hour program from 4:15 p.m. to 4:45 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, will be carried by 40 stations.

In addition, the race will be broadcast over the 208 stations of the CBS radio network and in Canada, Alaska, and Hawaii with a rebroadcast scheduled for the Armed Forces in various sections of the world.

Bratton KO's French Champ

MONTREAL (UP) — Former Welterweight Champion Johnny Bratton said today that his "bad teeth" helped him to score a fourth round technical knockout over Pierre Langlois, and his cocky French victim added to the confusion by claiming he should not have been in the ring because his dentist told him he had a bad stomach.

Bratton, 148¾, floored to 150-pound Langlois with a left hook at 2.03 of the fourth round of their scheduled 10-rounder Thursday night. The French welterweight champion was up at the count of nine but obviously was dazed and his manager, Jean Britonnel, signaled Referee Joe Fisher to stop the fight.

Although Bratton, who has trouble with his "glass" jaw and hands, battered Langlois at will in the fourth, the French boxer claimed that only poor health saved his Chicago rival from a beating.

"I had a bad stomach and my dentist told me I shouldn't fight last night," Langlois said. "I'd like a rematch. Bratton didn't hurt me at all and I don't think the loss will hurt my career too much because, after all, Bratton is only a former champion."

Colonels Stretch Association Lead

By The Associated Press

Louisville's red - hot rookies have pushed the Colonels into a full one game lead atop the American Association standings.

The Colonels pegged their 10th win in 14 starts Thursday night with a 7-4 trimming of Kansas City.

Indianapolis handed Milwaukee its fifth setback in 14 games, 5-4, in 10 innings. Lloyd Gearhart, who was sent to left field to replace Milt Nielsen as a defensive move in the ninth, delivered a single that scored Bobby Wilson with the deciding run.

Herb Mancini singled with the bases loaded in the ninth to give Columbus a 7-6 decision over St Paul. Doug Clark, rookie right-hander for the Redbirds, pitched hitless ball for four innings after replacing starter Ed Ludwig. Another rookie, Stu Miller, held the Saints hitless in the ninth after Clark gave way to a pinch hitter.

Roy Dandrige bagged three of Minneapolis' 11 hits and batted in five runs as the Millers walloped Toledo 11-1. The defeat snapped Billy Connelly's winning streak at three games. Al Corwin went the route for the Millers and spaced six hits to gain his second victory.

A.C.E. Studies Athletic Policies

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Council on Education will hold a full-dress meeting today with its president, Arthur Adams, predicting that the University of Kentucky's athletic policy may be aired.

Adams was referring to critical comment leveled at the university Tuesday in New York by Judge Saul S. Streit. In suspending sentences of three former Kentucky basketball stars for shaving points, Judge Streit accused the school of making football and basketball "commercialized enterprises."

The A.C.E. meeting is the group's first as a full body since last February when a special committee of college presidents, headed by John A. Hannah of Michigan State, adopted a strict sports reform program.

The program was adopted by the A.C.E. executive committee which is tanjamount to certification of the whole group.

"Safety" Is Bowling Green Grange Topic

Special to The Star

LARUE—A program on "Safety" was presented when Bowling Green Grange met at the Grange Hall. A covered dish dinner was served at 7:00 in honor of new members, with the business meeting following.

During the business meeting with Master Eston Williams in charge, the Grange decided to observe Rural Life Sunday May 18 with attendance of the group at the morning service at the LaRue Methodist and Baptist Churches. Pomona Grange was announced for May 3 at Green Camp. Those attending are requested to take pie for refreshments.

The roll call was answered with "Safety Hints in the Home and on the Farm." A contest was conducted by Mrs. John T. Jones. C. M. Gorby showed a Safety Film for the remainder of the program.

During the regular meeting of the Juvenile Grange, plans were made for the Mother's Day program to be presented at the Subordinate Grange meeting May 9. The matron, Mrs. Tom Crawford announced that the judging of bird houses made by Juvenile members would be made at the next meeting. As with the Subordinate Grange, a Safety program was presented preceding the viewing of the film. A Safety Slogan was given by Merrill Williams followed by a story, "Danger! Boy on Tractor" was told by Mrs. Crawford. Stories were also given by Jeff Greenwood and Danny Watkins.

A poinsettia plant can be kept until the following season by placing it in the basement or some dry place.

Repairmen started hammering on the floor above the court room and the judge had to adjourn court until bailiffs ordered the noise stopped
